Ballet pupils' £5,000 gift to help research into cancer

PUPILS from the Moya Vahey School of Russian Classical Ballet in Cowbridge and the Ella Morgan School of Dance in Pontyclun raised thousands of pounds for cancer research during a recent performance.

The pupils performed The Sleeping Beauty by Tchaikovsky accompanied by the Rhondda Sinfonietta players, conducted by Nic Treharne.

Ticket sales and associated fundraising from the performances raised £5,000 for Cancer Research Wales, which this year celebrates its 50th anniversary.

The dancers, who live all across the Vale, Bridgend and Rhondda Cynon Taf, staged the production at the Sony Theatre in Bridgend College.

Laura Priddle, fundraising manager at Cancer Research Wales said: "What a fantastic amount of money raised by these young people in what was obviously a high quality performance.

"Every donation made to Cancer Research Wales goes straight to the teams of world-class scientists based here in Wales, for the benefit of cancer patients everywhere."

Isaac St John Griffiths from Llanharry (Rubicon Dance College), Llewelyn Brown from Wick (Llantwit School), Alice Teague from Llantwit and Rachel Bent from St Mary Hill near Bridgend (both Cowbridge Comprehensive School) all confidently led the way in the performances.

Cowbridge residents say 'Happy birthday, Ma'am!'

Residents in St John's Close, Cowbridge (above) were determined to celebrate the Queen's 90th birthday with a street party – and the sun shone brightly on what turned out to be a great day!

Hair today, but gone tomorrow!

A 17-year-old student at Cowbridge Comprehensive girl will be saying goodbye to her long locks tomorrow – all in aid of a good cause.

Madison Garland has set a date of Friday, June 17, for 'the chop' when she will have her hair cut off and then donate it to The Little Princess Trust, where it will be used to make wigs for children suffering with hair loss.

She told The GEM: "This will take place in my local salon in Rhoose, Salon 100, owned by Annette Gill who is kindly supporting me. As well as this, I have been fundraising for the charity."

Fundraising is going well, but Madison hopes that it will really take off when her long tresses are cut off!

Quaker view on the referendum

WE feel that the decision to be made in the EU referendum on June 23 is of crucial importance to Britain and to the whole of Europe and beyond.

We owe it to ourselves and to all those who will be affected to ensure that whatever the result, the campaign and the debate are based on truth and respect and not on misleading information or fear.

The Quaker movement came out of a time of political and social upheaval in Britain in the mid-17th century, when there were deep divisions between people and much mutual suspicion, leading to the scapegoating of particular groups.

The founder of Quakerism, George Fox, came to believe that each of us has a responsibility to make our own choices and decisions, based not on doctrine, but by seeking the truth in the here and now.

Quakers continue to place emphasis on taking individual responsibility for our own behaviour and for working towards communities based on truth, in which peace arises from equality and social justice and a sustainable use of resources is rooted in respect for the natural environment.

Quakers have never had a written creed, but we each try to live our lives in accordance with five key principles of peace, truth, equality, simplicity and respect for the Earth.

We hope that these or similar principles will underpin the discourse and decisions of all the campaigners and voters in the lead-up to the referendum.

Carole Rakodi
Clerk,
Penarth Quaker Meeting.

'Waste strategy is incorrect'

TODAY (June 9) is recycling and general waste collection day on Phyllis Street – the recycling has just been collected, and the street is already a mess.

Throughout most of the year, foot waste collectors clean up the mess left by the initial collections.

This was not the case the previous week, so I hope they will be round this week.

The Vale Council's waste strategy on Barry Island is fundamentally wrong.

There are not enough cleansing personnel or bins (or they are too small) to cater for the additional visitors, that the excellent improvements to the promenade have attracted.

This means that more time is spent on what the council perceive as the "important" area of the Island, and the residential side is being neglected.

Please could the council prioritise the needs of the Island's council tax payers, as without their money, they couldn't afford to clean up after the day trippers.

Initially, could they please send workers to clean up the Phyllis Street/Clive Road area.

Mike Dunn,
Barry Island.

'The past has a lesson to teach'

I AM not a Conservative, nor am I an admirer of David Cameron; however, this warning of war if the European Union breaks up, is not without foundation.

Should we leave the union, the splintering of Europe is almost inevitable. It is only the time frame that remains uncertain.

I barely remember Prime Minister Chamberlain's speech in September 1938, when he said: "How horrible, fantastic, incredible it is that we should be digging trenches and trying on gas masks here, because of a quarrel in a far-away country (Czechoslovakia), between people of whom we know nothing."

Today, we know a great deal of the people and the countries of Europe. Indeed, three million Brits live and work there.

I have no wish to see the re-introduction of border controls and fences with their associated work permits and visas.

Already, we have seen the rise of fascist movements within Europe, and closed borders will only exacerbate the growth of such movements. In aviation 'open skies,' a European phenomenon, has brought cheap air fares to millions of British tourists. This could dwindle, to high fares and reduced services with the advent of new bilateral agreements.

Airbus Industry, jointly owned by the French and German governments, would almost certainly move their wing-making factory from Hawarden Airport in north Wales to Toulouse or Hamburg, with a loss of over 100,000 jobs in the UK. Why would they not do so, if we were to leave the EU?

Just like the 1930s, we cannot escape Europe by building a wall around ourselves. Either we band together to help democratise the EU, or we will suffer the consequences of a European nightmare that no borders can keep out.

As a young boy, I saw Europe torn to pieces by war and then unite into the European Union.

Surely we can't be that stupid to ignore the millions of lives lost and all that effort made, to see Europe unravel once more.

"Those who do not learn the lessons of history are doomed to repeat it," G Santayana.

John H Evans,
Cowbridge.

Library plants didn't move by themselves!

ON Friday, June 10, a member of the Llantwit library staff bought plants and put them in the two wooden planters outside the front doors, to brighten up the view.

On the morning of Saturday, June 11, when the staff came to open up the library, all the plants had been removed, new plants installed and soil liberally strewn around the library entrance.

The staff had to sweep up the soil, as this could have been a health and safety hazard.

Nobody knows who carried out this deed and as a regular user of the library, I would like to ask your readers if they can help solve the mystery.

Simon Baelz.

Beware of the election 'gifts'

DESPITE the view from Barry that an election in Rhoose be sidestepped on cost grounds, we now have seven candidates standing, three of whom even live locally.

The label on the tin is local council election, so I would ask voters to ignore any candidate who does not even live in the Rhoose constituency.

Let them stand in their own little parish, where they can experience local issues.

Two of the three remaining candidates represent the two main national parties.

Haven't we had enough of their voting on party lines, that for example has cost us our local library, or at least may do, if the council can defeat the will of the people in the High Court next month.

That leaves one local independent candidate, the main campaigner in Save Rhoose Library and a member of Focus on Rhoose, all undertaken before any talk of a local election – Adam Riley.

Funny how Labour and Conservatives suddenly appear on the scene promoting populist issues when they were nowhere to be seen when the village was being ignored by their party followers on the Vale Council.

Beware of nobodies bearing gifts at election time!

Steve Reed,
Rhoose.

Schools' merger 'wrong move'

I WOULD like to add my name to the strong objections to the Labour-led Vale Council's plans to merge Cadoxton Nursery with Cadoxton Primary school.

I am saddened and shocked to learn that the cabinet has approved the merger, as there is evidence that nursery schools in deprived areas operate better as a stand-alone unit.

It was crucial that they remained as stand-alone units to enable a focus on the children and help parents as the signatures to the 500-strong petition pointed out.

I just wonder how much the decision makers really considered the objections without just saving money on top of their agenda and one must ask whether the Labour-led cabinet already made up its mind? Like many of the objectors, I have to agree in saying that this move in not in the best interests of the nursery school.

All this will really save is the nursery school's headteacher's salary, which is quite small in comparison to the quality and time given to this school.

This is a bad decision and a real let down for the community and I would urge you all to bear this in mind come next year's local elections.

Coun Richard Bertin,
Barry.
(Vale councillor).

WHEN WILL ROAD OPEN?

DOES anyone else feel as I do, that the local authority are treating us local residents with contempt?

I refer to the ongoing work at Harbour Road, Barry.

This 20-week project is now in its 31st week and any progress would seem to be minimal. In the March 31 edition of The GEM, Coun Moore was telling us what a marvellous effort had been made to open the road to two-way traffic for the Easter bank holiday.

That was 11 weeks and two bank holidays ago; could he please advise us when the work will be finished and what the overrun costs are? As rate payers, are we not entitled to know this?

K Ewington,
Barry.

Message is on the label

THIS letter is in response to the 'In or Out' letter in the June 2 issue of The GEM referring to labelling.

I personally am very happy with present day food labels, which gives important information on nutrition and ingredients, such as how many calories, for those on a diet, or how much chicken is actually in chicken nuggets.

There is also very important information about allergies, certain foods which may give reactions in people sensitised to them, such food as nuts (in general but including peanuts), milk, fish, etc.

On the issue referred to in the previous letter, I believe this was missing not only a warning about fish, but also gluten and milk.

The warning label has to be general and unfortunately, this sometimes may appear 'ridiculous and silly', but who decides? If there is an allergen present, it is stated boldly on the label: important as, for instance, Lidl has information in five or more languages.

If the allergen is fish, then it's on the label; do we not include it for herrings because it is obvious? How about fishcakes, or paella? Perhaps we need a committee of Daily Mail readers to decide!

As with so many issues with bureaucracy and the EEC, dare I suggest that a bit less knee-jerk reaction and a little more thought may be in order?

I Robinson,
Rhoose.

Decorated wartime flier who became a campaigner for peace

George Crabb 1925–2016

GEORGE CRABB.

THE humanist funeral took place in Ramoth Chapel, Cowbridge on Friday, June 3 of George Crabb, a man who won the respect and affection of so many people in Cowbridge and beyond.

He was a gentle, intelligent, well read and visionary man whose conversation remained an inspiration to those privileged to share his company through to his 90s.

He was at different times of his life a classical violinist, a coal miner, a decorated RAF rear gunner, a keen historian, a member of Meibion y Machlud male voice choir and a teacher of children with special needs. He taught in Craig Y Parc School, Pentyrch and later became head teacher of Erw Delyn School, Penarth.

Although English by birth, he learned Welsh and spoke it fluently as a regular member of the Welsh Conversation Group that meet in The Bear on Friday mornings.

He was best known through south Wales as a dedicated socialist and campaigner for peace. He would tell, as a member of Bomber Command, that the co-ordinates his plane had been targeting were not those of a factory, as they had been led to believe, but of the densely populated centre of Dresden.

The experience led him to become a lifelong campaigner for the peace movement and CND. Among a host of campaigns, he argued for a memorial to be placed in the Temple of Peace in Cardiff in memory of all conscientious objectors.

He met his wife Jeanne at a peace rally and they worked together for peace throughout their marriage.

Before Armistice Day each year, George could be seen about the town selling the 'white poppy of peace' to raise money for the civilian victims of war.

He became a member of the Communist Party when he came to south Wales in the 1950s and remained a fervent socialist throughout his life, decrying capitalism and proclaiming the need for each of us to respect our common humanity.

Jeanne and he retired to Cowbridge were they were both active in local affairs contributing to several books of local history.

In his later years he still travelled and, despite his doctor's worries, visited Cuba in his 90th year and he was by far the oldest member of his Tai Chi class.

The brief history of The Market Place, which hangs outside the restaurant today, was written by George.

Appropriately, The Bear and The Market Place, both close to his home, did their best to make his own cooker redundant during his last years. GT

Royal celebration

ON June 10 school councillors at St Nicholas C/W Primary organised an action-packed day to start a weekend of celebration for Queen Elizabeth II's 90th birthday.

A spokesperson said: "The school came together for a presentation on the Queen's life. The children, researched the values of the Commonwealth and all 53 country members.

"The school council organised a carousel of 'Commonwealth Games' sports, such as table tennis, lawn bowls, triathlon and hockey, teaching the other children the skills required. A parade of home-made crowns had been followed by a 'Royal Birthday' tea, set in a sea of union flags commemorating the 90th birthday of the Queen.

"Finally the school congregated in the hall to watch an interactive online tour of Buckingham Palace. They were then given a commemorative gold coin and performed a resounding rendition of the National Anthem."

'COWBRIDGE MUSIC FESTIVAL' AND 'MUSIC IN THE VALE' GET TOGETHER...

Two in tandem as the search goes on for young talent...

THE Cowbridge Music Festival has linked up with Music in the Vale to offer performance opportunities for young singers and musicians in the area.

They are both attracting talented youngsters as their reputations grow, supported by local businesses and local dignitaries.

Winners and runners-up from the last Music in the Vale competition (held in November 2015) will perform at the festival on September 24-25 at Holy Cross Church.

Music in the Vale holds its annual competition for singers and musicians in Stanwell School, Penarth on November 19-20; see www.musicinthevale.org.uk.

For further information, contact the chair (Music in the Vale) Allan Jones 07833 490 125, or Sheelagh Lewis on 01446 781002.

CHAPLAINS, CLOGS AND GOOD COMPANY

A VERY entertaining evening was held in May when Clocs Canton, a north-west Morris Dance group from Cardiff, displayed their skill of dancing in clogs while waving garlands. Boverton WI members thoroughly enjoyed themselves and even joined in the last dance.

Our June meeting saw nine members dressed in their finery and hats, spending the afternoon attending the Rhoose Link. They were given advice from a personal dresser from the John Lewis store and enjoyed an excellent buffet.

Business for the evening meeting included a Welsh afternoon tea in March 2017 in aid of the Denman Appeal, and a reminder that our trip to the Blenheim Palace Garden Festival on June 18 will leave the bus station promptly at 7.30am.

Members were also asked for a show of hands concerning an afternoon trip to Tredegar House.

Our speaker for the evening was Rev Michael Wishard, a retired priest who had spent many years as a Royal Navy chaplain aboard various ships.

Depending on size, some RN ships have a chaplain on board, known to the men as "Bish"; but unlike the army and airforce he holds no rank. Sir Francis Drake had a chaplain – Francis Fletcher, as did Lord Nelson – Alexander Scott.

Every ship has a Sunday service and the chaplain's role is to help sailors and families and be a friend and advisor to all on board, and he answers to the ship's Captain.

It was a thoroughly enjoyable and entertaining talk with lots of laughter and questions.

The raffle was won by Anne Beckwith and Jill Liles, and our July meeting – which includes a book stall – will start at 7pm on the second Thursday of the month, and all are welcome to join us at the Llantonian Hall.

'Town centre lets Cowbridge down'

I WALK my dog every day around the streets of Cowbridge and I must say they are very clean and tidy.

But, unfortunately, it is spoilt by the state of Cowbridge town centre, with gravel, stones and dog fouling in the gutters and on pavements.

I have phoned the council's visible services about six times, but no action has been taken.

JAMES ('JIM') GRIFFITHS – A TRIBUTE

A Vale sporting stalwart who has left a lasting local legacy

by WILL NORMAN

IT'S sad when you lose someone, but that can be a good time to reflect and celebrate what has been achieved.

James Howell (Jim) Griffiths, along with his brothers Glyn, David, Vivian and Hubert Griffiths, all served on the Llantwit Major Rugby Club committee, or played for the club. Jim also played rugby for Neath Athletic RFC and Glamorgan Wanderers RFC and was committed to the promotion of rugby football in Llantwit Major.

As a player (wing/centre) during the 1956-7 season, he was top try scorer with 15 tries from 29 appearance, a good achievement by any player!

Jim put his heart and soul into any task given him at the Llantwit club, and was well respected, not only by members, but also over a wide area.

Former players have warmly testified to Jim's positive influence over them when they played rugby for the town.

A former Welsh Guardsman, Jim carried the colours, not once, but twice at Trooping the Colour at Horse Guards Parade, a record at the time!

Jim showcased his excellent organisational skills during the Llantwit club's centenary year (1989) with functions arranged, and supported in great numbers by former players and club members from far and wide!

A keen historian, Jim arranged for the captains' board to be written and displayed in Llantwit Major Rugby Club. As part of Jim's legacy to the club, all former and current players now wish to see their names written on this historical club asset!

Jim was responsible for the formation of the mini and junior rugby section during the 1980s. This milestone event has become the backbone of the club and many players have come through this system, which is still thriving today.

Jim's numerous contributions to Llantwit Major Rugby Club helped to cement the club in the strong position it's in today.

Members and friends salute one of their stalwarts and thank him for his many years of wonderful club service, and the legacy which he has given us.

RIP James Howell Griffiths.

The GEM joins in sending his wife Mair and all the Griffiths family, sincere condolences in their sad loss.

• Key roles carried out by Jim at Llantwit Major Rugby Club:

Player (1955-57), general committee (1959), club reporter (1963), fixture secretary (1969-79), Life Member (1979-80), rugby committee (1980-81), assistant chairman (1982-83), chairman (1983-84), president (1989-96), trustee (1975-2010).

Barry hoping for 'third time lucky' with Red Arrows

by GEM REPORTER

THERE was disappointment on Barry Island and in the town on Sunday after the Red Arrows were unable to carry out their planned aerial display at midday.

GEM readers contacted us on Monday morning expressing frustration that the Red Arrows had been unable to perform for a second time – in 2015 there was a late cancellation too.

This year weather conditions were against them – and the hope is they will try again in 2017.

John Buxton of Barry Tourist Railway, who helped to organise the Red Arrows' visit, explained: "We were clearly disappointed that the Red Arrows display had to be cancelled due the the misty rain that enveloped Barry Island around midday yesterday.

"The Red Arrows' ground team landed earlier by helicopter and seeing the cloud base dropping, busily tried to replan for a flying display at lower level with a later start, but the cloud came lower than anticipated and the team were booked to do another display over south Devon in the afternoon, so options were limited.

"Also, a time slot has to be booked with Cardiff Airport – the airport has to shut for a display to take place.

"The culmination of all these difficulties eventually resulted in the unfortunate late cancellation.

"Fortunately there was lots to see at the Festival of Transport and our craft fair, so the many people I spoke to going home on our shuttle train service still enjoyed their day out at Barry Island.

"We will persevere and book the Red Arrows again for 2017 – as we can't plan for the weather, let's hope for a third time lucky next year!"

HMS Cambria will parade through Barry

THE officers and men of the 'stone frigate' HMS Cambria will parade through Barry on Saturday, June 18.

The right to parade through a town, city or county is now a ceremonial honour to mark trust and dedication between the military unit and the area. HMS Cambria was given the right in 2012.

The ship's company, with the Band of the Royal Marines, will march onto King Square, outside Barry Town Hall from 11.15am.

The company will then parade along Holton Road and to the Vale Council buildings, where the salute will be received by Her Majesty's Vice Lord Lieutenant, Sir Brooke Boothby.

The parade finishes at 12.15pm and members of the public are welcome to attend and line the route.

Maendy YFC go disco at Rally Day

GLAMORGAN Young Farmers recently held their annual Rally Day last Saturday in Slade Farm Organics in St Brides Major.

The Maendy Young Farmers go D.I.S.C.O.

Members from Maendy YFC competed against members from Bridgend, Gelligaer, Gower, Llantrisant, Neath and Wick in over 20 competitions to get the top prize of the rally day cup.

Cowbridge marks centenary of the Battle of Somme

FRIDAY, July 1 will mark the 100th anniversary of the first day of the Battle of the Somme – the largest and most significant land battle of the First World War.

In 1916 at 7.30am on that morning 100,000 men of the British Army went over the top and by nightfall more than 57,000 had become casualties, of which 22,000 were dead.

By the time the battle ended some four months later on November 18, 1916 almost half a million soldiers of the British Army had become casualties.

Many of these were members of the 'Pals' battalions and hardly a city, town or village across Britain was unaffected by this battle.

In Cowbridge, this anniversary will be marked by a service of commemoration at Holy Cross Church starting at 10.30am on Friday, July 1.

The service will include music, memories and reflections by pupils from Cowbridge Comprehensive School, and an act of remembrance led by members of the Cowbridge and District Branch of the Royal British Legion.

All who wish to remember and mark the tremendous human sacrifice made in the course of this, the most tragic battle in British history, will be most welcome at this service.

Peter Davies,
Cowbridge and District Branch of The Royal British Legion

Arcade games more violent than Punch and Judy

I HAVE just returned from a lovely weekend in Burnham-on-Sea – and watched Punch and Judy on the prom.

Grans and gramps, mums and dads, and children ranging from babies to teenagers were all clapping, laughing and 'happy'.

You can see more violence on the games in the arcades.

This custom is 350 years old, has surely stood the test of time.

Wise up, Barry!

'This is no time for a social experiment'

A READER'S VIEW

IN the final week of the referendum campaign it seems that two issues are uppermost in voters' minds: the economy and immigration.

On the first, we are still digging ourselves out of the mire created by the recession of 2008/9. We are still borrowing billions each year to fund the NHS and other public services and it will take until 2020 to get the budget back into balance.

The government spends one tax pound in 20 just paying interest on our debt.

Meanwhile, China is retrenching and the world economy is fragile: this is not a time for economic experiment.

All independent economic institutions, domestic and international, agree that Brexit would cause a severe shock to the economy: here and in the rest of Europe. Even the United States will be affected and has implored us not to 'go delusional.'

A Brexit shock would hit tax revenues leading to more borrowing, more austerity, more expenditure cuts. Those who suffer will be the least well off in society. A vote for Brexit is a vote to make Britain poorer.

As for immigration, it is both a blessing and a curse. A blessing because our service-oriented, low-productivity economy relies on a steady flow of new labour.

Immigrants come here, not for our benefits, but for the jobs which companies are creating. Without immigration, our economy would be starved and our public services, like the NHS, crippled.

We have one of the lowest unemployment rates in Europe; there is no large pool of unemployed. Nor is there solid evidence that immigrants depress wages. And their capacity for entrepreneurship, for creating new tax-paying businesses, is legendary.

At the same time, pressure on public services suggests that current levels of immigration cannot be sustained long term.

Solving this conundrum will not be easy, but we are not the only country facing this problem.

Simply closing the door to EU migration is not a solution, however attractive that may appear to some to be.

We should be shooting ourselves in the foot, while potential retaliation would hurt British companies in Europe and those Britons who have chosen to live abroad. Far better to work with others to find solutions.

How would south Wales ever have developed if Glamorgan, Gwent and Carmarthenshire had shut their doors to incomers?

So I hope people will think hard and vote Remain on June 23.

Peter Sain ley Berry, Cowbridge.

A roundup of sporting news from Cowbridge Comprehensive School

Canoe Polo

OVER the weekend (June 4-5), two Cowbridge Comprehensive School pupils, Ben and Danny Muller, both competed in a Welsh under-18 team event at Liverpool International Canoe Polo Tournament.

They did very well, winning the youth competition and coming second (runners-up) in the Class 3 Tournament.

Ben and Danny's club team (Bridgend C) also came second in the South West Division 3 Canoe Polo League last year, gaining promotion to Southwest Division 2 for next season.

They are both members of the GB Canoe Polo development squad, and Ben will be playing for GB development squad in the Welsh Open Canoe Polo Tournament in August.

Golf

Congratulations to Oliver Brown, a year-13 student at Cowbridge Comprehensive School, who has just been selected as a Welsh International to play in the European Boys Golf Tournament in Austria in July.

The Golf Union of Wales take the top six under-18s in Wales. Well done, Oliver!

Surfing

Surfing

THE Welsh National Surfing Championships were held at the end of April in Pembroke.

Cieran Hughes, (a year 11 pupil at Cowbridge Comprehensive School) had a good weekend and got some great results.

He was fourth in the under-18 boys and also fourth in the Men's Open Division. Cieran made history as the youngest ever surfer to make the Open final, a fantastic achievement! (A link to a report of the contest can be found at http://www.wsf.wales/project/welsh-nationals-2016/).

He has again been selected for the Team GB 2016 under-18 Boys squad; there are 15 boys selected in his category and Cieran is one of only three selected from Wales. Selection was based on his results and performance in 2015.

Ffion Hughes (a year-9 pupil at Cowbridge Comprehensive School) had a great weekend at the competition too, with some fantastic results.

She won the under-18 Girls category, came second in the under-14 Cadets category (boys and girls combined) and also came third in the Women's Division: a great effort! (A link to a report of the contest can be found at http://www.wsf.wales/project/welsh-nationals-2016/.)

Ffion has also been selected for the team GB 2016 under-16 Girls squad; out of the nine girls selected for her category, she is the only Welsh girl. Selection was based on her results and performance in 2015.

A party fit for the Queen!

BROWNIES and Rainbows in Cowbridge celebrated the Queen's 90th birthday last week.

A spokeswoman reported:

The Queen has been the patron of Girlguiding since 1952, and was herself a Guide from 1937.

1st Cowbridge Brownies organised the party and invited 1st and 2nd Cowbridge Rainbows to join them in an afternoon of songs and games.

It was a sunny afternoon and the Brownies and Rainbows were able to move their party from the Scout hut onto the police fields.

The party began with everyone singing Happy Birthday to the Queen, followed by Penblwydd Hapus to one of the Rainbows who was celebrating her sixth birthday that day.

The girls enjoyed running around in the sunshine, the highlight being the water game with the Brownie sixes competing, with the help of the Rainbows, to transfer water from bucket to bucket by means of a rather leaky cup!

A fantastic spread was enjoyed by everyone – thank you to all the parents for their donations of party food. It was a real banquet, worthy of the occasion!

The party ended with more songs and each Rainbow and Brownie received a commemorative badge.

Huge thanks to all the leaders who organised the event. Without you volunteering your time and energy, we would be unable to give our Brownies and Rainbows the fabulous activities and experiences that you create.

If you are interested in joining us, visit the website www.girlguiding.org.uk. We would especially love to hear from you if you are an adult who would like to help, as we would love to be able to accommodate all the girls on our waiting lists too!

News from Fonmon Apiary

SWARMING season is definitely under way and calls for advice and assistance are coming in daily.

Thankfully, other beekeepers are able to assist when alerted to a swarm in their particular area. However, some swarms are just not recoverable, such as those in chimneys or in holes in walls.

To secure a swarm, the queen bee must feature in the number of bees that you manoeuvre into your box. Without her, you will not succeed.

Finding her is not feasible, as you will be looking at anything from 10,000 to 30,000 bees minimum. The approach is to cut or shake the branch causing bees to fall into your box and if the queen bee is among them, all of the rest of the swarm will follow.

How does this work? Well, the queen gives off a chemical signal (pheromone) and this lets the bees know where she is and they want to be with their queen.

Then leave the box where it is, usually on the floor, and return when it is getting dark. All bees settle in their hives at night and the swarm will do likewise in your container.

You can now seal the entrance and take them away.

This approach is not always understood by those who have made the request to have the swarm removed; they would like it gone immediately! If the bees were removed when they all appear to be in your box, there will be a quantity of bees out looking for a new home and come the evening there will be numerous bees milling about looking for their now departed queen and your caller, will certainly not appreciate that.

All in all, the bees are responding to the good weather and I do have hopes of a honey crop very shortly. In fact many different pollinators can be seen out and about despite the many factors that are seeing their numbers ever diminishing.

As a result of a previous article of mine, I have met a farmer and an agronomist, both of whom, are at pains to assure me that all control measures used on their crops are approved and above all are pollinator-friendly, plus they are leaving strips of land to provide some bio-diversity in their mono-cultural approach.

Studies undertaken by agricultural and beekeeping scientists have led to conflicting and convincing reports from both sides.

Resolving this situation may not happen just yet.

The coming week promises cooler and wetter spells so this could well check the swarming impulse of the bees, however these varying conditions mean the beekeeper has to remain on the alert.

Several new beekeepers are just that, thanks to the swarms that have been secured and given new homes.

Shortlisted for award, now... COWBRIDGE PHARMACIST IS SEEKING YOUR VOTE!

KATE THOMAS, a community pharmacist in Cowbridge, has been shortlisted as a regional finalist for the Royal Pharmaceutical Society's 'I Love My Pharmacist' award, and is now looking for the public's vote to progress to the next stage of the award.

Working in Sylvia Williams Chemist for over 20 years, Kate has been recognised as a pharmacist who goes the extra mile for patients in her local community.

Now into its third year, the 'I Love My Pharmacist' award celebrates the exceptional contribution pharmacists make to patient care every day throughout Great Britain.

Pharmacists are often the unsung heroes of the NHS. They don't just dispense medicines, they also work alongside GPs, nurses, hospital staff and even care home staff, providing expert advice and vital services such as medication reviews, as well as providing services in the community such as stop smoking support and lifestyle advice.

There are 23 shortlisted 'I Love My Pharmacist' regional finalists in Great Britain, all of whom have demonstrated exceptional care and commitment to patients.

Kate has been shortlisted as a regional finalist because she always goes the extra mile for her patients.

As a community pharmacist, Kate is often called upon to support patients with more than just their medication. A particularly happy customer is Richard Watson (41), who has managed to turn his life around thanks to the advice and encouragement he received from Kate and her team. Thanks to Kate's support, Richard has managed to come off his diabetic medication completely after losing 50 per cent of his body weight in two years.

Richard said: "I love going in to Sylvia Williams Chemist, the staff are always happy to help and the service is really personal and friendly. Kate and her staff were very supportive and kept encouraging me that if I lost weight, I could potentially turn my diabetes around. With that encouragement I started to lose weight and was able to reduce my dose of metformin.

"Over two years, I lost over eight stone and have now been able to come off the medication altogether. I feel much healthier and it has inspired me to help others, so I have become a Weightwatchers' leader in my spare time. I would like to thank Kate, Jane, Kirsty, Lauren and all the other staff for their help and I will definitely be voting for them!"

Kate Thomas of Sylvia Williams.

Kate also writes a health column in The GEM giving advice to the community and identifying the services and support that she delivers in her pharmacy.

Kate said: "It is an honour to be selected as a finalist in this national competition. Good service and a friendly face is the absolute priority in our pharmacy. The staff all have a really positive ethos and work together as a team with the goal of making our customers' lives as easy as possible.

"We also strive to work hard as part of the wider primary care team, liaising with the doctors and other healthcare professionals to provide the best possible outcome for our patients."

Ash Soni, Royal Pharmaceutical Society president said: "The 'I Love My Pharmacist' award demonstrates just how vital pharmacists are to every local health service as we showcase and celebrate the many different and vital roles they perform across the NHS. Pharmacists help patients take their medicines better, treat minor ailments and make life-saving interventions, as well as offering many other services.

"I'm delighted that Kate has been selected as a regional finalist and I would now call on all members of the public to visit www.ilovemypharmacist.co.uk and vote for their regional winner".

To cast a vote for Kate, visit the 'I Love My Pharmacist' website before voting closes on July 21.

Wales diabetes hotspot – AND BRIDGEND STATS ARE SIMPLY 'STAGGERING'

by GEM reporter

A staggering 9,800 people in Bridgend county borough are now estimated to be living with diabetes, a health charity has claimed, on the launch of Diabetes Week 2016 (12-18 June)

Diabetes UK Cymru is highlighting the scale of the 'diabetes epidemic' as Wales now has the highest prevalence of diabetes in the UK, as 7.1 per cent of people aged 17 and over are living with the condition.

Worryingly, new research released by Diabetes UK shows there is still a lack of understanding surrounding diabetes, with many people not recognising the seriousness of the condition.

A recent survey of 1,491 GB adults aged over 15 found that 53 per cent of people are unaware that poorly managed diabetes can lead to often devastating complications such as heart attack and strokes.

The poll also found that one in three people, when asked, thought that it was true that Type 1 diabetes was linked to being overweight, when in fact it is not linked to lifestyle whatsoever and there is nothing that can be done to prevent it.

The charity is concerned that confusions such as this could lead to people making false assumptions about the condition and are calling on everyone to become diabetes aware by urging them to take some time this week to learn about the signs and symptoms, especially when Type 2 diabetes can take up to 10 years to be diagnosed, unlike Type 1, where symptoms tend to develop rapidly.

Diabetes UK Cymru's director Dai Williams said: "There are now the highest ever number of people estimated to be living with diabetes in Bridgend county borough, which really highlights the current scale of the crisis.

"Diabetes Week is a time to share our concerns about the scale and seriousness of diabetes, but it is also a fantastic opportunity to highlight that with the right healthcare, support and management, diabetes doesn't have to hold anyone back."

High profile supporters are backing the week, including Eastenders star Jonny Labey, who has Type 1 diabetes and the Hairy Bikers, as well as singer and stage star Alexandra Burke.

Alexandra understands more than most how the condition can be misunderstood. Alexandra's mother has Type 2 diabetes and is on kidney dialysis as a result of her condition.

Alexandra said, "The biggest misconception I feel people have around Type 2 diabetes is that it can just be left and not treated."

Throughout the week, the charity will be asking people to share their stories of living with diabetes.

For more information on how to share your story or to get more information on the week, go to www.diabetes.org.uk

The 'Blue Sky' riders are on their way from London to Cowbridge...

TOMORROW (Friday) a group of friends will be leaving London on a cycle ride in memory of Justin Roberts, who tragically died 12 months ago.

The 'Blue Sky Bike Ride' begins on Friday, June 17, on the first anniversary of Justin's death. The starting point for the ride is Lloyds Bank, in the City of London, where Justin worked.

The name 'Blue Sky Ride' was chosen because Justin was a keen skydiver.

About 20 friends and family members will cycle some 206 miles to Cowbridge and expect to arrive at about 4pm on the afternoon of Sunday, June 19, at the Arboreal restaurant in Eastgate – where any local people who want to cheer them home will be most welcome.

Jessica Morgan is Justin's sister, and is one of the organisers. She will be raising money for the Alzheimer's Society, and she told The GEM that it was a charity that was close to her family's hearts.

Matt – a colleague of Justin – has chosen to support Samaritans.

The trip will be no easy ride, as Jessica says that some of the riders are not experienced cyclists.

On the first day, they will be riding 110 kilometres from London to Newbury, and on day two (to Bristol) 128 kms.

Finally, the Sunday ride from Bristol to Cowbridge is another 95 kms, and is scheduled to arrive at Arboreal at 4pm.

Jessica said: "If you feel you would like to give to either Samaritans or to Alzheimer's, donations can be given to Janet Morgan, Justin's mother, and Griff Morgan, who will pass the money on to both charities.

"If preferred, money can be donated to the Alzheimer's Society through Jessica's JustGiving page at www.justgiving.com/fundraising/Jessica-Morgan9

Overnight vigil to remember the Battle of the Somme

THERE will be an overnight vigil at Llandaff Cathedral on June 30 to honour those who fought in the largest battle of the First World War.

The vigil is part of the 'Wales Remembers Cymru'n Cofio 1914-1918' programme and begins at 9pm. At 4.30am on July 1, a procession will depart the vigil to the Welsh National Memorial at Cathays Park.

The vigil will conclude with a public service in the park between 7am and 7.30am to coincide with the time the battle began one hundred years before. The service will end with rapid gun fire and whistle blowing to signify the moment soldiers went over the top.

The public is invited to the event, as are members of HM Armed Forces and the Royal British Legion.

The Battle of the Somme is the central focus for this year's commemorations and will be marked by an overnight vigil organised by the Welsh Government and the City of Cardiff Council.

Dinas Powys Women's Institute gets to the heart of the matter

DINAS POWYS WI held a free coffee morning on June 11 to give villagers an opportunity to see a defibrillator and to question Robin Petterson, from the Welsh Ambulance Trust, on how it is used and exactly what it does.

It is hoped to purchase the defibrillators through the British Heart Foundation (BHF) and a stall with the charity's items was manned by the Barry BHF fundraising group.

The WI also welcomed Jane Hutt, the AM for the Vale, to the coffee morning. Dinas Powys WI has raised funds to donate two or three defibrillators to the village to commemorate the centenary of the WI.

The WI held a very successful coffee morning in November 2015 and a fashion show in April 2016 and has raised over £3,000 to purchase the 'public access' defibrillators and the heated boxes to house them for the village.

The community council and the Rotary Club have made substantial donations to the fund and there have been one or two personal donations made as well.

It is hoped to have the defibrillators in place later this year.

Celebration and challenge with official opening of the Senedd

ASSEMBLY NOTES

by Jane Hutt AM
(Minister for Finance)

LAST week, we were fortunate to welcome to the Senedd the Queen, who formally opened the fifth National Assembly for Wales on Tuesday, June 7 during the week of her official 90th birthday celebrations.

Her understanding and commitment to the progress and impact of devolution in Wales was clear in her words to the 60 Assembly Members in the Chamber – only nine of whom (including myself) were present at the first opening in 1999.

She spoke of the way we had embraced our new law-making powers in the fourth Assembly and of the new powers and responsibilities to come, as the new Wales Bill was also published on the day of our opening last week.

The First Minister Carwyn Jones AM responded with a clear commitment from a Labour-led Welsh Government that we will 'work together' in the fifth Assembly for the good of Wales, to ensure we continue to keep faith with the electorate and deliver a programme of Government, including legislation commensurate with our responsibilities and our agreement with Plaid Cymru.

One of the key tenets of our agreement was to work together in support of the campaign to remain in the European Union with the referendum on June 23. Cross-party 'working together' was clear in the debate this week, promoted by Baroness Eluned Morgan (newly elected AM for Mid and West Wales and former member of the European Parliament), supported by Lord Dafydd Elis Thomas AM and David Melding AM.

In another newspaper last week an editorial was appropriately headlined, 'Passion and reason as we go to vote' and I am sure we can all agree that this is the prevailing atmosphere of this very unsettling referendum campaign.

So much is at stake for Wales, the UK and our future generations.

I have been asked for facts as well as opinions by constituents and have been very pleased to share these as widely as possible. Europe Day on May 9 provided that opportunity and to highlight information about the ways in which EU funds have helped us in the Vale.

So it is important to share the fact that 750 people in the Vale have benefited from an EU-funded apprenticeship and over 400 young people on our 16-25 year olds Jobs Growth Wales Scheme were also funded by the European Union Social Fund.

Over 2,845 qualifications have been achieved thanks to EU funding for our workplaces and colleges, providing vital skills for the Welsh economy.

The restoration of Barry Town Hall and King Square was funded with the help of £845,000 from the EU and the renovation of the Barry YMCA Hub included £1.1m of EU funds. The new platform on Barry town station benefited from EU funding.

Businesses have been created in the Vale with EU funds (370 between 2002-13) and basic payments have been made to 185 farm businesses in 2015/16. The Superfast Broadband Cymru programme is also backed by EU funding.

I am supporting a number of projects which have received funds from the EU Rural Development Fund refurbishing village halls, creating community allotments – Treoes and Dinas Powys are good examples – and more bids are being considered for the next phase, including Ogmore by Sea Village Hall Association.

European funding has also helped fund vital flood alleviation schemes across the Vale.

These are facts to share with you but also there are queries to answer. I hope it will be helpful for people to know that Wales received £4.17 billion from the European Union in 2007-13 and for 2014-2020 we are due to receive £4.9 billion, including payments to farming businesses.

There is clearly a great deal of passion too as well as further headlines to ponder. I have often quoted Rt Rev Rowan Williams, former Archbishop of Wales and Canterbury in my GEM columns and I am happy to do so again, as he writes with leaders of other faith communities to say:

"The past 70 years have been the longest period of peace in Europe's history. Institutions that enable us to work together and understand both our differences and what we share in common contribute to our increased security and sense of collective endeavour."

I sign up to that, too.

'Decision on our future in the EU lies with you the voter' says Welsh Conservative leader

A week today, people across the country will head to the polls to decide on the United Kingdom's future relationship with the European Union.

Over the past few months there has been a ferocious debate, some of it accurate, some of it bordering on the ridiculous, but the beauty of this referendum is that ultimately the decision lies with you.

Politicians of all colours, big multinational companies and numerous think-tanks have all had their say – but the future destiny of our country will be quite rightly decided by you. If you believe in further political integration and a journey to the creation of a European super-state, you will vote to remain in the EU and this is a viewpoint, held by some, which I wholly respect.

But if you want a strong United Kingdom with sovereignty back at the heart of our Parliaments and Assemblies rather than in the hands of unelected officials such as Jean-Claude Juncker, who you cannot 'sack' at the ballot box, you will vote to leave.

I have been clear from the outset in my intention to leave what I see is a broken and failing political project – I'm not against Europe and I want us to maintain a positive relationship with our neighbours – but I want us to live on the same street as good neighbours with our friends on the continent, not necessarily in the same house!

Ultimately, I believe we should be in control of how we spend our own money on priorities which we can set here in Wales and the UK - rather than continuing on this journey of greater political integration with unelected European commissioners that have little or no accountability to British taxpayers and can choose to fritter away our money on their pet projects.

On June 23, we have a once in a lifetime opportunity to take back control of our money and borders and restore sovereignty to our shores, but whichever side you might choose in this debate, make sure you exercise your democratic right and vote next Thursday.

Vale shepherd is 'Bath and West' champion

ABOVE: Elise was awarded second place in the Young Handlers competition.

LOCAL shepherd, Jane Bissett, recently returned to the Vale from the Royal Bath and West Show, Somerset, bringing home the coveted title of Champion Flockmaster 2016.

The win was a dream come true for Jane, who at the end of 2015 gave up a civil service career to focus on the fortunes of her sheep – The Kennixton flock.

Showing sheep has become a family affair, with Jane's partner, Derek Frankham and their grandchildren, Faith (9), Jacob (6) and Elise (6) all playing their part in getting the sheep ready for the ring.

Jane said: "I keep two pedigree flocks, Poll Dorset sheep and the smaller Shetland sheep and showing is something we can all do as a family. Everyone enjoys a great time at an agricultural show and if you come home with a ribbon, then it's always cause for celebration. Coming home with the title Champion Flockmaster, well, I'm still getting over the shock."

The Royal Bath and West Show was the family's first outing of the season and this year it was the first time that Jane was attending as a full-time shepherd in her own right.

She added: "I have always taken an interest in the flockmaster competition, but always felt that it was for people who were making their living from sheep. But this year I felt for the first time that the flockmaster competition was for me. But with all 'good ideas' when the class got closer I have to admit to wondering what on earth I had let myself in for. The judging took place over the four days of the show and included your sheep, pens and displays. All these were scrutinised by the judge even before you ever made it to the ring."

Only the Shetland sheep were entered in the show so the family were a little disappointed when the Shetland classes were cancelled due to lack of entries.

However, after being re-entered into the Hill and Upland classes the Shetlands, who were the smallest sheep in the group, did rather well, collecting a handful of ribbons for shearling ram, ram lambs, ewes and ewe lambs.

Saturday, the final day of the show, was the ring-craft part of the flockmaster competition where competitors showed their sheep before the judge.

Jane explained: "I was quite nervous and not sure what to expect. The judge chatted to each competitor and examined the sheep, very thoroughly before selecting his line up. When I was asked to step forward with Duncan, my Shetland ram, I was delighted, although I could also see how just how stiff the competition was. When he started to walk towards me with the first place rosette I was really shocked and then before I knew it I was in the championship against a very experienced Fiona West with her Whiteface Dartmoor ram."

Both owners and rams stood side-by-side as the judge decided on the overall winner and much to the delight of the onlooking crowd the Champion Flockmaster went to Jane Bissett.

Jane said: "It was a wonderful day. When the judge awarded us (Duncan and me) the championship, a roar went up from the onlookers, mostly family and friends of both myself and Fiona, and then an equally loud roar as Fiona took reserve."

The real star of proceedings was the quiet and unassuming Shetland ram, Duncan (Kennixton Black Casanova), who during the week had also won the 'Hill and Upland Wool-on-the-Hoof' and had helped six-year-old Elise secure a second place in the Young Handlers competition.

Jane concluded: "Everyone has been so kind and supportive, especially my former colleagues, so I hope this goes some way to showing them that maybe I wasn't totally bonkers by giving up my career. Sometimes in life you just have to follow your dreams and I have been lucky enough to have been able to follow mine."

Kennixton Sheep are registered suppliers of Welsh lamb and mutton as well as producing, Poll Dorset knitting yarn, Shetland fleece, spinning tuition and sheepskins.

Cardiff Airport announces 12 months of passenger growth

MAY FIGURES JUMP BY 27 PER CENT

ANOTHER successful month has been recorded at Cardiff Airport, with passenger numbers increasing by 27 per cent versus the same month last year.

This increase represents 12 consecutive months of growth, bringing the rolling 12-month total of passengers flying from Cardiff to just over 1.279 million.

An airport spokesperson said: "Customers are taking advantage of an increased choice of destinations, more availability and better timings on key routes, plus airlines are offering greater value for money to fly from Cardiff."

The announcement comes following a number of new developments for Wales' national airport.

Flybe has recently marked the one year anniversary of its two-aircraft base at Cardiff Airport. Having enjoyed a successful year of flying, the airline has increased summer flights to Faro and Milan to four times a week and will operate flights up to four times a day to London City from September 12 to step in and help Welsh customers during the Severn Tunnel closure.

Also, Flybe has also released its flights for winter 2016/17 and announced a brand new route to Berlin starting on November 2.

Low-cost Spanish airline Vueling has responded to the demand from Welsh customers and increased its summer programme of flights from Cardiff by some 40 per cent, meaning greater capacity on flights to Alicante, Barcelona, Malaga and Palma Majorca.

The terminal has also undergone improvement, with a brand new walk-through duty free store, coffee shop, bar and restaurant now open in departures.

Debra Barber, managing director and chief operating officer at Cardiff Airport commented: "It's been a fantastic 12 months, we've seen some exciting developments and a busy start to the summer season.

"During May half term week alone we saw more than 35,000 passengers through our doors and enjoy the new look in our departure lounge.

"Additionally, we're continuing to fly the flag for Wales and on Saturday we were pleased to be able to give the Wales football team a fantastic send off for the start of the Euros. Here's to continuing success and more busy summer months to follow."

Breast Centre says 'thank you' to fundraisers

DOZENS of Breast Centre Appeal fundraisers attended a recent 'thank you' event in recognition of their commitment and dedication in raising hundreds of thousands of pounds for the cause.

The Breast Centre in University Hospital Llandough centralises all aspects of the breast care service under one roof, from consultation to diagnosis and treatment.

Maria Battle, chair of Cardiff and Vale University Health Board (UHB) said: "What fundraisers do is absolutely incredible. There are around 100 fundraisers raising money for the appeal with over £250,000 raised for the Breast Centre so far.

"Every single penny donated to the centre goes into the centre, to improve care to our patients.

"From the Health Board and myself I'd like to say 'thank you' for all that you do."

Irene Hicks, who lives in north Ely, has raised more than £21,000 for the charity.

Irene said: "I started to fundraise for the Breast Centre as my daughter-in-law was diagnosed with breast cancer two years ago. I could see the wonderful things the centre was doing, and how wonderful the staff were, from the breast care nurses to the reception staff, they are all great.

"When my daughter-in-law started having treatment and was going to lose her hair, I held a fundraising event for her head shave – this started me off raising money for the centre and I have been doing so ever since."

The Breast Centre Appeal is part of Cardiff & Vale Health Charity (RCN 1056544), the official charity supporting all the wards, departments and specialties of Cardiff and Vale UHB.

For more information on Cardiff & Vale Health Charity, contact the charity office on 02921 841802.

BE A MAGPIE!

– and find that special Welsh course that suits your requirements

by EMILY WOOD

HAVE you ever been asked the question 'Do you speak Welsh?' If you have, and your answer is 'Yes', or 'Yes, some', then feel proud; you will probably have managed to avoid the shame a person born and bred in Wales feels when they have to answer 'No'. I, unfortunately, am a member of the latter group.

After some time working over the border and overseas, I've started to feel like a bit of fraud, claiming to be Welsh through and through but not being able to speak the language of my own country.

Now that I have moved back to Wales, I've decided enough is enough; I will no longer be ashamed!

After some brief research, I found the perfect Welsh course and signed up for an intensive two-week beginner's option that will take place over the summer, held at Cardiff University. (Courses are available for whatever level you may be, all year round, at times to fit around your work schedule and family life).

'But, did you not have to learn any Welsh at school?' I hear you cry! My linguistic education has, on the whole, been great: I've learnt French, Spanish, a bit of Italian and even dabbled in a spot of Russian. Nevertheless, because I attended a private school and an English university, Welsh has sadly never been a part of it.

After studying languages at university, living abroad and training to be an interpreter and translator, I've come to understand that even acquiring a basic grasp of another language acts as a key to getting right into the heart of another country's culture, history and society.

Therefore, it goes without saying that this applies to your home country too. We live in a bilingual country and we should embrace it!

Another reason I have finally decided to learn Welsh is because, as a linguist, I like to collect languages...a bit like philological magpie.

Furthermore, being a polyglot can only enhance your career prospects. I'm currently working as a translator; a job in which the more languages you can add to your collection, the better, as the more languages you understand, the more work opportunities you will have. Of course, this applies to all professions really.

What employer wouldn't favour someone who would be able to speak to that important international client in their own language or be able to get the company out of a sticky situation when a cross-cultural miscommunication arises?

In general, my reasons for learning Welsh stem from a love for languages, a desire to do well on a professional level, and a dislike of the guilt caused by answering 'No, none at all' to that inevitable question that crops up when someone finds out where you're from.

You may have your own reasons for wanting to learn Welsh, or any other language for that matter, but here is my advice to you: be a magpie! Find a course, sign up for it, maybe get a friend or family member involved, learn as much as you can and see what opportunities unfold!

RHODRI DAFYDD MILLER MEMORIAL TROPHY IS LAUNCHED BY SCHOOL

YSGOL BRO MORGANNWG will award an annual mathematics trophy in memory of student Rhodri Miller who tragically died in a car accident last year.

Rhodri's parents Dave and Jo explained: "Rhodri is sadly no longer with us. He was an A* maths student studying towards his A-levels, therefore we felt it quite fitting to have a trophy awarded in his memory in this subject. It's the first of its kind at Ysgol Bro Morgannwg."

Rhys Lloyd of year-13 was presented with the trophy on his final day of school by Rhodri's younger brother Iestyn, along with an award of £250 given by Dave and Jo, and the patrons of the King William, in recognition for all his hard work and effort in maths.

Rhys said: "I got a mark of 299 out of 300, but I know Rhodri would have gone that extra mile and got that extra mark!"

Rhodri's family have thanked Ysgol Bro Morgannwg for the school's support in allowing the trophy to be presented each year in memory of their son.

Dave and Jo added: "We also would like to take this opportunity to thank everybody who donated money across the bar at the King William IV, which raised £1,500 for the Church of St Cadoc.

"We also want to say a massive 'thank you' to friends, family, customers, businesses and everyone else who attended and donated towards the memorial football match which enabled a memorial bench to be sited outside the reception area of Ysgol Bro Morgannwg."

AM's praise for Rally Day

VALE farmer Andrew RT Davies has described Saturday's Glamorgan YFC Rally Day as a "storming success".

The annual event was once again held at Slade Farm Organics in St Brides Major and included events from welly-wanging to woodwork.

Mr Davies, who acted as one of the judges on the day, said: "The Glamorgan YFC Rally Day is one of the days in the calendar I always look forward to and Saturday was no different and provided yet another storming success.

"It was great to see so many young people taking part in the various competitions and also the number of supporters who came along to watch, not just from the Vale of Glamorgan but right across the region.

"My best wishes go to all the winners on the day who will go on to the various competitions at the Royal Welsh Show next month."

Emilia Clarke is not just the 'Mother of Dragons'

FILM REVIEW by DANNII THOMAS

Me before you* is a British-American romantic drama – now if you're a big Game of Thrones fan, especially of Daenerys Targaryen, then this is not the film for you.

However, if you're a big fan of Emilia Clarke then I think you'll enjoy it. After seeing Emilia on The Graham Norton Show with her agreeing that her character in Me before you is more like herself in real life, I can confirm this is true.

It is the feature film debut of director Thea Sharrack, who is the youngest artistic director in British theatre, and known for the likes of Arabian Nights and The Misanthrope.

The film is a rollercoaster of emotions that is draining – though leaves you with a feeling of warmth and what I can only describe as an understanding of a taboo subject.

It has a fantastic cast that includes Charles Dance and Joanna Lumley. The story is based around Louisa 'Lou' Clarke who comes from a middle class family who unfortunately loses her job. She takes on the job of carer for Will Traynor (Sam Claflin) a disabled man who was involved in a motorbike accident two years previously which resulted in him becoming quadriplegic.

The film starts with how Will's accident happened.

When meeting the character Lou you instantly like her, she's quirky, witty and with a dress sense that could out-do Paloma Faith. Her facial expressions and smile can melt hearts, though I did feel her eyebrows sometimes had a life of their own which is what helps bring out the comedic side of her.

Along with meeting Lou we get to meet her loving family whichs consists of dad Bernard (Brendan Coyle), mum Josie (Samantha Spiro), sister Katrina (Jenna Coleman) and nephew Thomas (Henri Charles).

Bernard is unemployed, and Lou being the bread winner, who has lost her job at a café after six years, has to take on the job of carer.

Later on, when Lou arrives at a very grand castle on the other side of town, we meet Camilla Traynor (Janet McTeer) Will's very upper class mother, who initially comes across as cold but in reality is just a mother looking out for her child.

We also meet Will's father Stephen (Charles Dance) who is instantly a lot warmer. There appears to be some frostiness between Camilla and Stephen – but as the story develops we see that this is not the case.

Lou gets the job with immediate effect so we get to meet Will who has had old stables specially adapted into an annex for him.

Nathan (Stephen Peacocke) plays Will's physical and medical nurse.

Unkempt and scruffy looking, Will has an instant line in sarcasm and rudeness, and though you're tempted to dislike him, you can't because you have an understanding of why he is like that given his circumstances.

Moving on we see Lou arriving day in and day out from 8am to 5pm trying her best to cheer Will up. It is to no avail and she endures a consistent cold shoulder until one day she retaliates. It's a pivotal moment and where we see a change in their dynamic, and the moment we begin to see Will's guard come down.

Before this there are some very funny moments in the film, and afterwards a lot more. The bond between them starts to grow.

Then Lou overhears Camilla and Stephen talking and discovers a secret...

After this she has a long hard think and decides to up the game by cheering Will up with Camilla and Stephen's blessing.

What follows becomes a rollercoaster with laugh out loud moments and tears.

The film also has some sub-plots which add to its joyous nature.

VERDICT: A thoroughly, heart-warming, laugh out loud, cry out loud, romantic, comedy drama. I really enjoyed this story and watching the lives of two young people from completely different backgrounds grow and bond, even if it is over a short period of time. Definitely highly recommended and to the men out there, it's not just a chick-flick.

SEE THIS IF YOU LIKED: The Fault in our Stars (2014) My Sister's Keeper (2009).

VOTE TO LEAVE!

On June 23 you will be given a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to help shape the future of our country. Here are just some of the reasons why your vote to leave the EU is so crucial.

1 The EU is run by the European Commission from Brussels. This is an unelected, undemocratic, unaccountable and powerful body. We cannot vote it out and consequently our influence within the organisation has been severely reduced.

2 We must be able to control our borders. Immigration will continue but we must restrict it to those with the necessary skills. At the moment we are forced to accept migrants from the EU who are attracted to the UK due to our National Living Wage, which is five times higher than that in Bulgaria or Romania. Mass economic migration, mainly from Africa, will dilute and unbalance our society and with their higher birth rate this problem will only multiply and become divisive.

3 The UK has the fifth largest economy in the world. We have a trade deficit with the EU of £67.8bn per year whilst with the rest of the world it is £31.1bn in surplus. We want to be free to negotiate trade deals with the world, and the EU, who do not want to imperil access to the vibrant UK market.

4 Brussels, through the Employment Directive, has imposed a huge range of restrictions, regulations and bureaucracy on British small and medium businesses and farmers. Only 5% of British firms export to the EU but 100% suffer from Brussels' red tape.

5 The EU has a long-term plan (Five Presidents' Report) for a European Federal State, including an Economic Union, a Financial Union and a Fiscal Union by 2025 at the latest.

6 NATO is the reason that Europe has enjoyed peace for 70 years, not the EU. As part of the federalist ambitions of the EU, the plan is to create a European Army. Imagine our chances, after a vote of 28 members, of being allowed to protect Gibraltar or the Falklands. The UK at present has a seat on the UN Security Council. A federal Europe would replace our seat with an EU seat.

7 At present our Courts of Law can be overruled by the European Court of Justice. We are not allowed to extradite convicted terrorists, nor can we withhold the vote from convicted prisoners. The new European Arrest Warrant flies in the face of the UK's Habeas Corpus, the right to remain innocent until proved guilty in a court. We would be free to create a new British Human Rights Law, more suited to our own interests.

8 In the event of Brexit our elected Parliament will have a mandate from the British People to negotiate our withdrawal from the EU. They will then be in a position to allocate the considerable funds saved to the NHS, farming subsidies and those things specifically in the Nation's interests.

9 Europe is in dire straits. Since joining in 1973 the combined economies of the present 28 members have declined from 36% of world GDP to 17% in 2015 (IMF). There is massive youth unemployment in the Mediterranean countries, Greece is effectively bankrupt, Italy and Spain are politically unstable and the rise of anti-EU and right-wing parties exemplifies the alienation of the European people from the European elites.

10 Britain is one of the most thriving, innovative and enterprising countries in the world. Set us free, release the Brussels shackles and we can regain our country and make it more prosperous and great again.

This advertisement has been funded by local people who are concerned about the future of 'Our Country' for themselves and their children.

Small, local venues vital for new theatre

FOR anyone with ambitions to make it as a writer, poet or novelist, there are many outlets.

Local magazines, for example, are always looking for new talent.

For playwrights, however, it is a different story. The opportunities to stage work are limited.

It is good to find an organisation such as Clock Tower Theatre Company, which is based in Cardiff and specialises in short, new plays – often by first-time writers.

The company recently staged The Railwayman by Penarth-based dramatist, Will Salter. Two performances, at The Little Man Coffee Company on Sunday, June 5, and then June 7 at the Gate Arts Centre, drew great applause from the audiences.

The play was dramatic, intense and sinister, the mood being well sustained by the cast of Jack Muir, Adriana Blue and Joe Burke.

All three produced powerful performances, but Adriana Blue's 10-minute monologue in the middle of the play was particularly memorable.

The Clock Tower Company will be staging another short piece of drama at the same venues in July.

Further details are available at clocktower@gmail.com.

Some of Simply Stunning Gifts' amazing range of candles

SAMANTHA NASH started Simply Stunning Gifts in May this year and has been delighted with the response to her products.

So delighted, in fact, that she has introduced a new line of bath salts, massage oils and massage bars to go with her comprehensive selection of bath bombs, fragranced soaps, cleansers, bubble baths and face masks.

Samantha said: "Simply Stunning is just the place for all your beauty products to get your body ready in time for your holiday."

Samantha also prepares the gift hampers, which are perfect for all occasions and to suit all budgets.

Simply Stunning is the Vale's flagship store for products by Busy Bee Candles – all of which are handmade in Wales using soy wax and the finest fragrances available.

"Simply Stunning Gifts," said Samantha, "is probably the largest specialised store in the Vale of Glamorgan stocking fragranced products, novelty candles and beauty accessories.

"Entering the store is a sheer delight; the aromas and scents greet you and the selection of quality items, all at reasonable prices, is really amazing."

Simply Stunning Gifts is located above VFM Meats at Palmerston Business Centre, Barry, CF63 2XA or telephone 07694532307.

Looking after your health? Try garlic!

We're all familiar with garlic's flavour credentials – but how much do you know about its health-enhancing qualities, asks Abi Jackson of the Press Association.

Here are some reasons to include garlic as part of a healthy, balanced diet...

• Garlic could help protect the brain.

Some studies have also linked garlic with lower risks of developing age-related brain diseases, including dementia.

• Anti-inflammatory.

Garlic is often hailed for its anti-inflammatory properties, thanks to its high sulphur content.

• Beating high blood pressure.

Too much salt is bad for you, and using an alternative flavouring, such as garlic, can reduce salt levels

Studies have also found that garlic extracts can directly reduce blood pressure.

• Artery aids.

Nutritionist Rob Hobson claims that black garlic – which is basically fresh garlic that's gone through a particular fermentation process – has additional heart health-boosting qualities. An LA BioMed study found black garlic supplements were linked with a reduction of certain types of plaque build-up in the arteries of some people.

• All about the allicin.

Additionally, allicin, a powerful antioxidant, antibacterial, and anti-fungal compound – an active ingredient that's released when fresh garlic is chopped or crushed (to reap the benefits, experts say garlic is best eaten raw) – has also been linked with protecting heart health, including helping reduce 'bad' cholesterol, along with a long list of other potential health boons, from supporting the immune system to improving blood circulation.

Local service for local people

VALE LASER CLINIC opened its second treatment room in April, offering beauty therapy treatments to complement the services already provided within the clinic.

A spokeswoman said: "You can visit Tathan Beautique and take time to pamper yourself with a manicure or pedicure.

"Would you like to get your nails done? We have Gelish Nails and OPI polishes to choose from.

"Eyelash extensions are available if you're looking for permanent lashes for the weekend or an up-coming holiday.

"We also offer waxing, including hot precision waxing and tinting to make sure your are looking and feeling your best.

"Our large treatment room means there is plenty of room to meet with the girls while you have your nails done and catch up on all the latest news together.

"We also have Dr Jo, experienced and a specialist in botox and fillers, who visits the clinic regularly.

Clients can make an appointment for a consultation at any time.

"Tathan Beautique and Vale Laser Clinic are above St Athan Pharmacy. You can come through the shop or through the glass door at the back of the building.

"Come up the stairs and say 'Hi'. We'd love to see you."

Return 2 Health Chiropractic Clinic

AT Return To Health Chiropractic Clinic (R2HCC), we have more than 12 years' experience of treating patients.

We are frequently presented with: "I've got sciatica", but 'sciatica' is a term for any pain down the leg caused by an injury in the low back, not a real diagnosis.

True sciatica is typically caused by an injury to a spinal disc, and can lead to irritation or damage to the spinal nerves. This leads to pain down the leg, often past the knee, and can be accompanied by pins and needles, sensation changes and muscle weakness.

Non-radicular sciatica is much more common and is caused by an injury in the muscles, joints or ligaments of the back which then radiates pain into the buttock and/or leg. This typically stays above the knee and doesn't cause symptoms such as pins and needles or weakness.

With the increasing use of tablets and laptops, at R2HCC we are seeing more people, particularly teenagers, with back issues.

Move it! Sitting for too long is not good for the body, particularly the back. It's very easy to sit and slouch for long periods, so get up and move every 30-40 minutes.

Lighten up! Keep your school bag light. If there are lockers at your school, keep heavy books in them.

Use a rucksack! Carrying a heavy bag over one shoulder creates muscular imbalance and uneven stresses on the joints. A rucksack with both straps over your shoulders is far better for you.

If you are worried about your back pain (or any other pain), why not come and visit us? You can book a free advisory consultation by calling 01446 740002.

Your Welsh festival!

MENTER Bro Ogwr is a Welsh Language Initiative giving the Welsh language a boost in Bridgend county borough.

The Welsh charity has teamed up with Awen this year in order to provide a one-day festival to be held at Bryngarw County Park on Saturday, July 9, between 10.30am and 4pm.

The 'Ogi Ogi Ogwr' festival will provide the opportunity for a range of performers and groups who work in Welsh, also giving the public a chance to collect information about a variety of services and Welsh organisations operating in the area.

Menter Bro Ogwr has organised this event with cooperation from their partners, so everyone will be there!

The staff and management board at Menter Bro Ogwr are excited and looking forward to the festival, which is the first of its kind to take place at Bryngarw Country Park.

We do hope that you can join us throughout the day, a Welsh fun festival, free for all.

Russian Superjet visits airport

by GEOFF JONES

WE often overlook the really interesting aircraft that come and go at our airport, concentrating on passenger growth and new routes.

The arrival on Saturday morning of this Russian-built Sukhoi passenger jet was a real seminal moment for the airport, and although in the future other Sukhoi Su-100-95s may appear, the chance to see and photograph one of the products of the up-coming Russian aerospace industry was indeed a treat for many local enthusiasts.

This is the first Sukhoi Su-100-95 Superjet to visit Cardiff, a CityJet aircraft EI-FWA which arrived from Dublin on June 11 to operate a day charter for Welsh football fans attending the UEFA Euro 2016 match between Wales and Slovakia in Bordeaux.

CityJet is based in Dublin and made headlines last year when it announced the airline would buy a fleet of Sukhois when most of the world's airlines have ordered Boeings, Airbus, Bombardier and Embraer passenger jets.

The prototype first flew in May 2008 and Sukhoi has accumulated over 300 orders for the type.

The French company Snecma is a risk share partner on the project and Alenia Aeronautica in Italy a strategic partner.

The aircraft can carry around 100 passengers in a 2x2 configuration and is built in Russia by Sukhoi at their Komsomolsk-on-Amur factory in the Voronzeh region of the country.

The Sukhoi Su-100-95 Superjet at Cardiff Airport.

Two joint-venture, Russian-built Power JetSaM146 engines power the aircraft and it received European (EASA) certification in February 2012.

This particular aircraft was delivered from Venice to Dublin on June 2, and in the following days carried out 'route proving' and 'service entry' flights using Prestwick on several occasions.

During the following days, its first commercial flight was to carry the Irish football team and supporters to Paris, for their first match of the tournament against Sweden at the State de France.

CityJet's second Su-100-95 is scheduled for delivery later in June with another two aircraft due to be delivered later this year, part of the airline's order for 15 of the type to replace its now-aging Bae146s/AvroRJ85s.

Sail day raises funds for the RNLI

A TOTAL of 28 yachts, with 250 people aboard, helped raise £24,000 for the RNLI by taking part in Cardiff Sail Day earlier this month.

The lifesaving charity is already calling on people to register their interest in taking part in next year's race. The event depends on local yacht owners donating their time and the use of their vessels to enable corporate sponsors to sail on their vessels.

After mustering in Cardiff Bay, the race started at Penarth Pier and the course plotted a route across the Bristol Channel towards Weston-super-Mare, next heading for Bristol, across to Newport, before returning to Penarth Pier. This year's participants had a closer look at RNLI lifeboats from Barry Dock and Penarth.

The winning boat was Turkana owned by Tony Rayer and sponsored by Simon Clarke of Retrofit/Techni3, who won the trophy originally donated by WT Davies some 25 years ago, and whose widow, Joan Davies, presented it to the winners. A close second was Forward Thinking owned by Steve Nicholls, sponsored by Alison Hoy of Berry Smith. After the sail, participants were invited to the dock in Cardiff Bay for a buffet, raffle prizes and a celebration.

Cardiff RNLI chairman Colin Lyons said: "Every year this event goes from strength to strength with more and more yachts and corporate sponsors offering their support. The aim is simple: to make as much as we can for the RNLI, one of the best charities in the world. Our grateful thanks go to the boat owners from Cardiff Bay Yacht Club, Penarth Marina, Penarth and Cardiff Yacht Clubs and Cardiff Marina."

Resident to stand as an independent

RHOOSE ward resident, Adam Riley, is standing as an independent candidate in the by-election to be held on June 30.

A civil servant, Mr Riley has lived in East Aberthaw for 12 years with his partner. They have two young children.

Over the past two years, Mr Riley has been a leader of the Save Rhoose Library campaign to retain a professional library service in Rhoose.

Mr Riley, who is not a member of any political party, believes that local politics should be all about local issues.

He told The GEM: "I feel that the Vale Council's history of being run along national party lines has been to the detriment of Rhoose in recent years, with Rhoose suffering from over-development and cuts to valued services.

I believe that ward representation is best done by somebody living in the ward and with nobody living within the ward coming forward to stand as an independent, I have decided to take on the task myself.

"Population growth due to housing development has pushed Rhoose towards the size of a small town. And yet I see none of the benefits of a town – decent infrastructure, a local economy, open spaces for children to play safely.

Adam Riley.

"All I see are more houses. Plans for future development in the ward must be examined and challenged much more rigorously to make sure that they will include what is so badly needed.

"As a Rhoose councillor, I would seek to negotiate with the private operators for an increase in the frequency of bus and rail services.

"I would also campaign within the council for expansion of the Greenlinks bus service to help the people of the ward."

WELSH – BUT WITH ENGLISH FORBEARS!

THE ROYAL Welsh Regiment would not be expected to have its origins in army formations raised in Shropshire and Kent in 1689, during the reign of William and Mary, but Cowbridge U3A discovered the connections at their June monthly meeting.

The guest speaker was Richard Davies, curator of the Regimental Museum of the Royal Welsh in Brecon. His illustrated talk began with a potted history showing how the regiments, raised by Lord Herbert in Ludlow and Sir Edward Dering in southern England became the 23rd (Welsh Regiment of Fusiliers) and 24th Regiments of Foot (eventually to be the South Wales Borderers).

Other components in the regimental timeline were the 41st (Invalids) and 69th (South Lincolnshire) and these would merge in 1881 to create the Welch Regiment (yes, spelt with a 'c).

Further amalgamations of units, as the number of infantrymen in the British Army has reduced considerably, would result in the formation of the Royal Welsh in 2006. Battle honours have been gained for actions such as Blenheim, the American War of Independence, Waterloo, the Crimean War and the Indian Mutiny.

However, thanks to the 1964 Stanley Baker-produced film Zulu, probably the best-known battle involving the 24th is the defence of Rorke's Drift in 1879, a small mission station – about the size of four tennis courts – used as a supply depot and hospital by the military during the invasion of Zululand.

After the British commander, Lord Chelmsford, had split his force to lead a reconnaissance the whole Zulu army had attacked his unfortified camp at Isandlwana (a mountain resembling the 'Sphinx' cap badge worn by the 24th) and wiped out a substantial British contingent, including most of the 1st Battalion, 24th Foot.

More than 4,000 Zulu warriors who had not been involved in this fighting attacked the small garrison, composed mainly of B Company, 2nd Battalion, 24th Foot, about 150 men at Rorke's Drift. The mission station, under the command of Lieutenants Chard and Bromhead, had been hastily prepared for defence with barricades of biscuit boxes and mealie bags.

Mr Davies told the audience that the film's aim was primarily entertainment, not a historical documentary. Experts have identified 144 inaccuracies, one them being to depict the regiment's personnel as being mainly Welsh.

In fact, the 24th was named the 2nd Warwickshires in 1879 and most of the defenders of Rorke's Drift were English or Irish, outnumbering the Welsh by about two to one in B Coy. The real story, without the Hollywood embellishments, is no less heroic.

Private Henry Hook, from Gloucestershire, is shown in Zulu to be an alcoholic malingerer, whereas he was teetotal and of exemplary character.

He was defending the hospital with Private John Fielding (who had enlisted under the name John Williams), born in Abergavenny, when the building's roof was set alight. There was no internal corridor and all doors opened only onto a verandah, where the Zulus were massed. The two soldiers had to dig through the mud walls of rooms, dragging patients through the holes while keeping the enemy at bay and hand-to-hand fighting took place in the confined spaces as Zulus gained entry into the rooms.

Eventually, after joining forces with Privates Robert Jones and William Jones, Hook and Fielding managed to shepherd a number of patients to safety. All four men would receive the Victoria Cross, among the 11 of these medals awarded for gallantry during the action; in total, seven VCs went to members of the 24th.

A letter, hastily scribbled on a chit for mealie bags from Assistant Commissary Officer Walter Dunne to his friend Captain Warneford at Cape Colony, is believed to be the first written account of the defence of Rorke's Drift.

It was purchased for £15,000 at auction by the museum a couple of years ago and is now on display in Brecon, as are many other items, not just from the Zulu War, but from 300 years of global travel by the antecedent units of the Royal Welsh.

The audience was even told why the British Army had adopted red coats as their uniform. The answer was simple: the government procured red dye as it was the cheapest available at the time.

Next meeting: a talk entitled: 'The Air Ambulance', by Catrin Hall, at 2pm on Wednesday, July 13 in Cowbridge Town Hall. Visitors welcome (there is a small fee, which includes refreshments).

Local company praised for 'fantastic' contribution to economy of Barry

by PHILIP IRWIN

A COMPANY based in Barry has been praised for its "fantastic" contribution to business and the economy in the Vale by local AM Jane Hutt.

Ms Hutt was in Barry for the opening ceremony for Masons Self Storage Centre – the first such unit in south Wales to offer 24/7 access to units, 365 days a year – and she cut the ribbon alongside Gordon Mason, one of the group's senior directors.

Jane Hutt said: "It was a great honour to formally open the Masons newly-expanded 24/7 self storage facility in The Vale and to congratulate this pioneering family business, which celebrates 25 years of self storage – alongside their longstanding removals business, built up by the Masons' grandfather.

"It was also great to visit the Sensory Bus, which makes such a difference to so many peoples' lives and is supported by the Mason's Group of businesses."

The demand for self storage has grown rapidly in recent years, and Masons has made sure that they have expanded to meet that demand.

However, 25 years ago it needed a company with the vision to spot that trend, and Masons were able to take advantage of the directors' foresight.

This latest expansion has taken the number of storage rooms available from 80 to 250, and already a high percentage are booked up.

The GEM asked Gordon and his brother Richard Mason what they felt was behind the growth in self storage.

Gordon said that the biggest factor was the increased mobility that people needed now in their working lives, leading to people putting a number of possessions in storage until they were settled.

However, for some people, the motivation for using storage facilities is different.

Richard said: "We have had people who have kept the same storage unit for 20 years.

"It becomes part of their lives, and they keep the things they can't bear to finally part with."

Gordon added that there were a number of other reasons people booked space. He said: "A number of businesses have done their sums and realised that it can be cheaper to use us than pay rates on buildings and rooms.

"For instance, we have legal firms who store documents, and shops that keep surplus stock here."

The company did a great deal of market research, and has added some important extras. Storage pods and a trailer pick up service are now available for all customers, with no need to hire a van.

Masons also identified a lack of easily accessible, good quality packaging supplies in the Vale, and so have created a shop to sell everything necessary for packing up a home or business – and they are working towards launching the online shop later in the year.

Also present at the opening ceremony was the Positive Interactions 'Sensory Bus' – a charitable project that is supported by Masons.

Gordon Mason said: "When we met Paul and Sylvia from Positive Interactions, who were looking for some help to get their sensory bus off the ground, we were eager to get involved.

"The sensory bus project is a fantastic initiative that could really help children in the Vale and further afield in south Wales.

"The idea is to create a calm environment where people with learning disabilities and their families can come and relax. Sensory rooms can have benefits for everyone, but may be particularly beneficial for children and adults with special needs, behavioural disorders, sensory processing disorders, disabilities and conditions including dementia, autism, brain injury, chronic pain, and for those in palliative care.

"Positive Interaction's sensory bus will be able to go a step further, by taking the sensory environment to those who might not be able to easily access a centre."

Jane Hutt and Gordon Mason prepare to cut the ribbon.

Kids Out day for Barry children

THE Rotary Club of Barry supported Rotary's national 'Kids Out' event on June 8 and took 40 pupils from Oakfield and Colcot primary schools in Barry by coach to Brean Sands Theme Park in Somerset.

The pupils enjoyed the theme park rides, as well as being provided with hats, sweets and ice-cream for all!

The day out was made possible thanks to the continued generosity of the general public in supporting the Rotary Clubs' fundraising events.

Speaking on behalf of the Rotary Club of Barry at the end of the very successful day, president Paul Halstead, said:

"It was a pleasure to accompany the pupils and see their smiling faces as they enjoyed themselves. The Barry Club's Kids Out event was organised on behalf of the Rotary Club of Barry by past president, Carl Kerr."

JONES
Henry Cadwgan
Pentyrch

Eira and Vaughan would like to thank relatives and friends for their kind messages of sympathy and support during their sad loss of Henry. We have been overwhelmed by the tremendous amount of cards, flowers and messages received.

We would like to thank Philip Preene and staff of W.H.Preene & Son for their dignity and help shown to us and Reverends Michael John and John Binny for the sincere and caring service at St Catwg's Church.

A special thank you to Anne Thomas, the organist; Henry would have enjoyed the wonderful singing. Also, to Mr Don Llewellyn who gave a magnificent eulogy to 'Butch'.

We would also like to thank Hywel Wigley and staff at Acapela, Pentyrch, for the superb buffet which they prepared for everyone after the funeral service.

Finally, a big thank you to Mr Jason Ward for bringing his 1966 Vanden Plas Princess hearse all the way from Holywell, North Wales, and members of the South Wales Classic Car Club for attending with their classic cars.

Henry would have been so proud.

Thank you to everyone who attended the funeral.

The doctor who protected Barry from bubonic plague

LAURIE OWEN, a long-time resident of Barry, tells the story of the town's first GP – a man who battled to bring safety and sanitation to a rapidly growing community.

IN 1884, the small village of Barry would become a bustling town, with the arrival of thousands of navvies and tradesmen of all kinds, intent on building the Docks.

George Neale (1852-1917) was born in Mountsorrel, Leicestershire, and became the first General Practitioner in Barry. His father, Henry, was a manufacturing hosier, but very little is known about his childhood or his family.

Indeed, the first mention of George was in Porth at the Tynewydd Colliery disaster of 1877. He was studying medicine at London Hospital and it was necessary for students to serve their final five years as an 'apprentice', so it seems likely that his time was under Dr Henry Naunton Davies JP, LRCP (Lond), LSA and the colliery surgeon at the time.

In April 1877, four men and a boy were trapped for 10 days underground, and 10 doctors assisted the rescue party, with no small risk to their own safety.

George was one of those men and he was subsequently awarded a bronze medal for his contribution.

Five years later, he qualified LRCP (Edin) and LRCS (Edin) and by 1884, in the knowledge that the Docks in Barry were to be built, this young physician/surgeon realised that his skills would surely be needed.

Just two years later, he married Sarah Matthews, the daughter of a local farmer.

He was the first GP in Barry, with his surgery in Porthkerry Road in 1885, and the 1891 census showed his address as 'Mountsorrel'.

Living with him were Margaret Ockwell, a servant, and Charles Hockley, a groom/domestic, but his wife Sarah was possibly a visitor with Rebecca Mackell in Bedwellty. It is likely that he built this large house and named it after his place of birth and it was well-known by my generation, as we grew up in the 1940s and beyond.

Dr Neale would surely have been overwhelmed by the sheer numbers of people and the chaos in which they were living. The new arrivals naturally brought with them not only the health problems of the time but also the many accidents, caused by the building of the Docks and the hundreds of homes springing up all over town.

In 1888, the Local Government Board appointed Dr George Neale the first Medical Officer of Health (MOH), with a salary of £25 pa and a further £30 pa as Port Medical Officer. He would hold these positions for the next 26 years before retiring in 1915.

Dr David Williams of Park Road kindly gave me access to a comprehensive account, which his father, Dr J H Williams, had painstakingly researched, of the work carried out by Dr George Neale over the 30-year period he spent with us.

From his first report as MOH in 1889, Dr Neale expressed concern at the poor living conditions and the ignorance of the poorer inhabitants, and with a population already of 10,000, he urged the completion of a proper sewerage scheme and adequate water supply.

This same year the 'Notification of Infectious Diseases Act' came into force and a quarantine station for ships with disease on board was chosen, between the East Breakwater and Sully Island.

He also circulated instructions to every house about the precautions needed and the management and isolation of infected patients. Scarlet fever, measles and diarrhoea were prevalent and with an average of seven people per house, control was difficult.

After much urging, in 1891, the Doctor was able to erect a temporary wooden Infectious Diseases Hospital 'on shore adjacent to the eastern Docks' at a cost of £161.6 shillings, which could accommodate 10 sailors in three wards.

In 1897, when bubonic plague from Bombay was reported, Dr Neale visited the ships in quarantine on a daily basis until they were infection free. It should be remembered that the many different diseases which sailors from all over the world brought with them, were hazardous and challenging for doctors and nurses alike.

After many stressful times, progress was being made, albeit slowly, when in 1894, permission was given to borrow over £6,000 to build an Infectious Diseases Hospital on Colcot Road. Frustratingly, it did not open until 1902, when it was restricted to smallpox and typhoid fever in seamen only.

Even after the opening of the Smallpox Hospital on Weycock Road in 1906, it was another six years before patients from town were admitted.

In a further attempt at isolation, in 1896, the Marquis of Bute leased some land on Flat Holm to Cardiff Corporation for £50 pa, to build a Cholera Hospital and it was the only Victorian sanatorium on a British offshore island. It was closed in 1935 and left to decay, but thankfully the island has been restored and is now a local nature reserve.

In 1897, Guglielmo Marconi transmitted the first wireless signals over open sea, from Flat Holm to Lavernock, just four miles away.

While all this was going on, there was personal tragedy for Dr Neale, when his wife Sarah died at Mountsorrel in 1898.

His report in 1906 contained the chilling fact that infant death rate was as high as it had been 70 years ago and he suggested that girls should be taught 'domestic economy', which would finally be adopted seven years later, with 'housewifery' centres in Hannah Street and Gladstone Road schools.

As evidence of need, when local residents could finally be treated, records show that in 1913, there were 135 admissions to the hospital on Colcot Road and 268 the following year. Now aged 62 and after many years of devotion to his patients, with particular emphasis on the young, Dr Neale decided to resign as MOH and become the Superintendent of this hospital, before taking well-earned retirement the following year.

My own family would certainly have been treated by the doctor or one of his colleagues, but those of us who came after have also benefitted from the practices set in place by this early pioneer.

The doctor also had an eye for business affairs, when in 1889, a group of local men set up the 'Barry Dock Permanent Building Society' and he was elected its chairman. Other directors were prominent men such as PJ O'Donnell, the physician/Ssurgeon and JP, John C Meggitt, timber merchant, and JC Pardoe, the council surveyor.

Much as today, there was a shortage of housing leading to rents being very high, so the aim was to encourage men who were working to take on a mortgage and buy their own homes.

The following year, he was a director of the 'Barry Castle Building Company', which in its first year would build 43 houses, shops and villas, including around the Park Crescent area. Indeed, they were pleased to announce that they could pay a 4 per cent dividend after just one year of trading.

Dr Neale was already a Mason when in 1893, he was sworn in as a JP.

An interesting story in the Barry Dock News of 1896 told of a group of 'capitalists' buying the 'Barry Dock and District Steam Laundry', with the intention of running it in Barry and not in Cardiff. They felt that with new machinery, their expertise and many contacts, they could increase employment in the town.

Dr Neale was a director, along with others including James Howell and W Morgan of The Hayes. Many of these early figures would later be recognised for their contributions to the growth of Barry by having local streets named after them.

Sadly, just two years after retiring, Dr Neale died at his home, Mountsorrel, on September 5, 1917 and was buried in Porthkerry Churchyard alongside his wife Sarah who had died 19 years earlier.

He could not know that in the 1950s, Glamorgan County Council would honour both himself and his colleague, Dr Kent, by naming the former Infectious Diseases Hospital, the 'Neale and Kent'.

As befits a man of such stature, his story does not end with his death. In his will he left some family bequests and also to Porthkerry and Penmark Churches, but the residue of his estate was to be used to establish a Trust, with the proceeds to help the children of Barry.

The annual income was to "improve the physical conditions of such children (for example the provision of suitable clothes, boots and food or physical exercises) so that the children may grow up strong and healthy men and women".

Dr Kent was one of the trustees and they reported that in 1921, 782 pairs of clogs and 226 pairs of stockings were provided, with 193 meals and the following year 925 clogs and 603 stockings.

Until the arrival of the NHS in 1948, fees for children's treatment at the Prince of Wales Hospital were often paid for by the Trust, with 'maintenance fees' for children varying from £1.15 shillings to £2.2s per week.

Over the following years, children's needs changed and some funds were switched to educational projects and youth organisations. In 1970, the Trust held a meeting with several local welfare heads and after much discussion, it was decided that the supply of footwear should still be continued and focus should also be given to single-parent families with three or four young children.

Although childless, this man could not have been more caring for all the poor and ailing children of Barry and he set a standard for all doctors to follow.

In next week's GEM, Laurie Owen looks at the life of Dr Percy Wheeler Kent.

READER'S VIEWPOINT

'EU countries in it for what they can take out'

WE have heard many misleading comments and statements by both 'Remain' and 'Brexit', but more misleading by the Remain.

In 1973 when we became the eighth member, the EU accounted for 31 per cent of world economic output. Today the figure is just 17 per cent.

It underlines the shrinking role of the EU in the world economy and why so many immigrants are coming to the UK to work, and for our better conditions, and again why so many from outside the EU come here.

Many countries in the EU are members, not 'for what they can do to improve and strengthen the EU economically', but 'what they can take out financially and other means.'

Some 18-plus countries in the EU take more out, mainly from what the UK and Germany put in.

France continues to issue threats against us if we leave. Look deeper and ask yourselves why this is.

While everyone likes the Pound to be strong against other currencies, it means we cannot compete fairly with many countries, because of EU laws in the areas of rules for business and employment.

Local artist explores 'Beauty Within' Barry

BARRY-BASED RL Clarkson will be showing a one-woman exhibition at The Room in the Park Gallery in Victoria Park, Barry from June 16.

Entitled 'Beauty Within', the work is inspired by Barry's landscape – both the coastal and the town's urban spaces.

RL Clarkson (Rebecca) studied BA (Hons) Ceramics and Painting at Wolverhampton University, followed by an MA in Ceramic Design from Staffordshire University.

Rebecca "...creates new artworks, using mixed media working with ceramics as her canvas. She works in multiples, with each individual piece standing alone or within the collection as a whole."

Rebecca Clarkson.

Rebecca said: "As an artist living and working in Barry, my new work 'Beauty Within' is highly influenced by the surroundings: the urban and suburban; the cliff tops and beaches."

Inspired by her time spent in and around the potteries of Staffordshire, Rebecca's work is always functional as well as being aesthetically beautiful.

Rebecca is a member of VOGA – the Vale of Glamorgan Artists – and has recently exhibited selected pieces of the collection at The Boundary Gallery in Cardiff Bay.

The exhibition – sponsored by Homemade Wales – takes place at The Room in the Park, Victoria Park, Barry and is open to the public from Thursday, June 16 until Thursday, June 30. Opening hours: Mon-Fri 10am – 4pm, Sat 10am – 12pm; Sun closed. Admission is free and for more information, visit facebook.com/homemade wales

‘Hell cannot be much worse’

The Welsh at Mametz Wood

THE attack of the 38th (Welsh) Division on the German positions in Mametz Wood in July 1916, the second week of the Battle of the Somme, would cost it some 4,000 casualties. It also led to an attack on the honour of the division.

July this year sees the centenary of this famous Welsh battle. A special service of commemoration will be held on the ground that was fought over from July 7 to 11, 1916 and pupils and staff from St Cyres School in Penarth have been invited to take part in the day’s events by the Welsh Government.

The headteacher of St Cyres School, Dr Jonathan Hicks, has written extensively on the battle. Here he recounts the story of those dark days:

The 38th (Welsh) Division was formed in December 1914 under the leadership of Major-General Ivor Philipps. New battalions of the Welsh Regiment, the Royal Welsh Fusiliers and the South Wales Borderers were recruited from the cities of Cardiff and Swansea, from the Rhondda, Caernarvon, Anglesey, Carmarthenshire and Gwent, as well as from London and north Wales.

These battalions eventually departed for France during the first week of December 1915. It was the start of active service that was to see the Division involved in some of the fiercest fighting on the Western Front.

Following the early fighting on the Somme, the British Army had pressed the German army back beyond the village of Mametz, and were facing them across the shallow valley to the south of Mametz Wood.

Mametz Wood was, and still is, the largest wood on the Somme, covering an area of over 200 acres.

The Germans were able to bring flanking fire to bear on any approach to the wood from Flatiron and Sabot Copses to the east. Further, the German second line was 300 yards beyond the northern edge of the wood and hence it could be reinforced easily. Among the German units facing the Welshmen was the Lehr Regiment of the Prussian Guard.

The attack was planned for 8.30am on the morning of July 7 and, even though the planned smokescreen did not appear, the 11th SWB and 16th Welsh rose to their task as soon as the artillery stopped and immediately came under fire from the German machine guns. Casualties mounted and the attack petered out some 250 yards short of the wood.

The attack had cost 400 casualties and Philipps was removed, command of the division passing to Major-General Watts who immediately set about organising another attack.

At 3.30am on July 10 the artillery barrage opened up and a little after 4am the attack began. The 16th RWF lost a measure of the cover offered by the artillery fire and subsequently the battalion lost heavily in the advance to the wood.

On the right, the 13th Welsh also came under fire from the German machine guns. They suffered heavy casualties and were beaten back on two occasions but finally they managed to get a foothold in the wood.

The 14th Welsh reached the wood more or less as the artillery barrage was lifting from the edge. On the left the 14th RWF attacked close behind the 16th RWF, and Brigadier Price-Davies committed the 15th and 13th RWF to the attack almost immediately.

On the right the 10th Welsh were added to the attack, making a total of seven out of eight battalions of the two brigades engaged in action.

The attack was a success with all the objectives being taken ahead of schedule, but it had not been without cost. In the seven battalions that went into battle five of the commanding officers had been killed or seriously wounded. Added to this was the loss of many of the junior officers, which resulted in the control of the thousands of men in the wood becoming increasingly difficult.

German reinforcements flooded in and this created havoc for a while among the attacking Welshmen, but by about 2.40pm the 10th SWB were able to get patrols out to the northern edge.

By 6.30pm that day the bulk of the wood was in the Welshmen’s hands. The day’s fighting ended there but it left the men tired and jumpy, and throughout the night there was much wild firing.

An attack was planned for 3pm on July 11, with the 16th Welsh, 17th RWF and 11th SWB taking the lead. At 2.45pm an artillery barrage was opened up but fell short and landed among the Welsh troops.

The 11th SWB reached the north-east corner of the wood by 5.40pm and there was fierce fighting throughout the rest of the day. The German reaction was to realise that to continue to defend the wood was fruitless, and orders were issued for their withdrawal. As dawn broke on July 12 the tired troops of the 38th (Welsh) Division were relieved.

The fighting for Mametz Wood was over. It had cost 4,000 casualties – about a third of the infantry strength, but the Division was to get little credit for the work. Another year was to pass before they were given the opportunity to show their worth, and at Pilckem Ridge, near Ypres, their honour was restored, but not before many more men had died.

The survivors left behind a number of moving accounts of their experiences over those days.

Emlyn Davies of 17th Royal Welsh Fusiliers described what he saw when he entered Mametz Wood. “Gory scenes met our gaze. Mangled corpses in khaki and field-grey; dismembered bodies, severed heads and limbs; lumps of torn flesh half way up tree trunks; a Welsh Fusilier reclining on a mound, a red trickle oozing from his bayonetted throat; a South Wales Borderer and a German locked in their deadliest embraces – they had simultaneously bayonetted each other. A German gunner with jaws blown off lay against his machine gun, hand still on its trigger.’

An unknown officer described the last moments of 2nd Lt Alan Sheriff Roberts, aged 20, from Chester. “We found under trees and bushes many a boy who had lost all hope of being found, and who had settled down in that desolate spot to die.

“In one corner, at the foot of a tree, we found Roberts. From his wounds I could see at once that we could do nothing for him. I got down, undid his collar, took off his cap and put my hand on his clear forehead. Feeling a touch, he opened his eyes, and recognising me smiled faintly, and murmured in a gentle voice, “Captain.” In a hopeless way I tried to do something for him, but he wanted nothing. He was in terrific pain but he looked so mysteriously calm. The precious breath was getting fainter and fainter whilst his face became brighter and brighter, developing at the last a clearness that was well-nigh unearthly.”

Signaller W Harold Bampfield of the 16th Welsh recalled: “While we were in the wood one German came out of the brushwood. I couldn’t understand why he didn’t shoot me. He put up his hands and said, ‘Don’t shoot, Taff.’ I said to him, ’You speak English.’ He said, ‘And Welsh.’ He asked me what part of Wales I was from. I told him from the Rhymney Valley, working underground in Bargoed. He said, ‘You must have seen me. I was working on top of the gantry, shoving the trams. They used to call me ‘Long Tom’. Just before the war broke out they recalled me to Germany to fight for the Fatherland.’ I handed him over where there were some more prisoners gathered in the wood. I often wonder did he get back to Germany because they were shelling pretty heavy.”

As the commemorations of the centenary of the battle this year will embrace the theme of reconciliation, it is as well to recall the suffering experienced by the German soldiers.

Gefreiter Erich Berndt of the the Lehr Infantry Regiment wrote: “During the night the shelling in the wood increased dramatically, destroying a dugout to our right. In addition to other comrades, my good friend Garde-Fusilier Friedrich Bierkamp met his end there. Offizierstellvertreter Jablonsky was buried for a short time. Extricated whole in body but disturbed in spirit, he was killed several days later.

“Next to hunger, thirst tormented us the most. There was no drinking water in Mametz Wood. In desperation, most resorted to scooping what lay in the bottom of craters. In order to filter out the worst of the dirt and filth we used our handkerchiefs. I was so tired I fell asleep standing against a tree.”

Harry Fellows was a lance corporal with the 12th Northumberland Fusiliers. He was one of a number of men charged with burying the dead inside Mametz Wood. The stench of the dead bodies was unbearable and took months to clear from his nostrils. Where a body had been blown apart by shellfire, the parts were placed in a grave using a shovel. It was reckoned that over 1,000 men were buried in this way on one day alone.

Harry Fellows never forgot this terrible experience and though he survived the war, when he died in 1987 it was his wish that his ashes be buried in Mametz Wood. On his headstone are inscribed the words: ‘Where once there was war now peace reigns supreme and birds sing again in Mametz.’

In 1930, 14 years after the battle, Mrs Helen Wheadon of Arabella Street in Cardiff was notified that her son’s remains had been found and identified inside Mametz Wood. Private John Bryant Collins of the 15th Welsh had been reported missing on July 11. He was buried in Serre Road Cemetery and his mother at last knew exactly where her son lay.

As the years pass, perhaps more men will come in from the cold as we continue to hear the voices from Mametz Wood.

Conservative MP launches a survey over Island service

VALE MP Alun Cairns, Welsh Secretary of State, has launched a survey of Barry Island rail passengers in response to continued terminations of the service from the Barry station to the Island.

He joined Andy Green of the Barry Ideas Bank, and Jill and Neil Woodward of the Island’s residents’ association to start the process of surveying rail users recently.

The survey is designed to measure the impact of the problem. Results so far show a deep frustration with frequent cancellations, a problem mentioned by every respondent.

Completed surveys also describe how rail service terminations at Barry station are causing Island residents to be late for work, incur taxi fares and miss appointments.

In the past year, 437 trains to Barry Island have terminated at Barry station or Cardiff Central station. This averages at eight times per week across the year.

The cancellations are primarily a result of decisions made by the rail operators, Arriva Trains Wales, and Network Rail to terminate and re-start the service at Barry to make up lost time and reduce delays along the line.

Arriva Trains Wales have explained to Alun Cairns that “decisions for terminating (Barry Island) services are initiated by our control to recover the service and restore the advertised timetable.”

The Vale MP however, worries about the impact of this policy on Island residents.

He said: “I have launched this survey so that the impact of the decisions to terminate Barry Island services at Barry station is appreciated.

“Many residents have told me how they have had to shell out for taxis or walk the causeway, often late at night and in wintry conditions. Many more have described how they have been late for work or missed appointments as a result.

“I will be taking this matter up with Arriva and using the findings of my survey to illustrate the case for terminating fewer trains to the Island. In the meantime, I encourage everyone affected by delays and cancellations to seek the available refunds and

'Outstanding performance in the Cowbridge Shield'

ANOTHER busy week for our ladies playing in three matches all at home.

On Monday June 6 in the two-rink evening league the visitors were a Cardiff team know as Cardiff G. Cowbridge were well beaten by a team comprising the most competitive and best players in Wales.

Rink scores: Lin Wallace, Dorothy Pritchard, Phyllis Price and Daine Lloyd, 16 - 20; Daine Purnell, Margaret Cooper, Lynda Wilson and Sue Flower, 7 - 25. Match score: Cowbridge 23 Cardiff G 45.

The following day in a Cowbridge Shield Competition, the ladies welcome Pencoed to our green and won on two of the three rinks.

There was an outstanding performance by Sylvia Hole's quartet of Sian Lewis, Diane Radley, Diane Lloyd and Sylvia winning by 21 shots to 5. Other rink scores: Corrie Bufton, Pat Davey, Joy Woolford and Dorothy Pritchard, 13 - 20; Lynda Wilson, Caryl Davies, May Jones and Pat Holdsworth, 19 - 13. Match score : Cowbridge 53 Pencoed 38

On Thursday Cowbridge picked up maximum points by winning on all 3 rinks in a league game against Murch from Dinas Powis.

Rink scores: Lynda Wilson, Margaret Cooper, Pat Holdsworth and Kay Edwards, 23 - 13; Diane Purnell, Sian Lewis, Phyllis Price and Shirley Willkinson, 16 - 11; Corrie Buffton, Diane Lloyd, Joy Woolford and Sue Flower, 23 - 10. Match score Cowbridge 62 - Murch 34.

The men played two games both away.

In the midweek Munro Cup game the opponents were Barry Athletic. It is always a pleasure to play on their good grass green and Cowbridge can be pleased with their performance by winning on two of the rinks. With five ends to play Cowbridge were ahead overall but Barry came back to force a draw.

Rink scores: Gerry Lloyd, John Collin, Tony Lewis and Alan Wallace, 28 - 11; Ron Frayling Bryan Hole Rob Lewis and Clive Pritchard, 18 - 17; Terry Dunsworth, Steve Dodsworth, Colin Wilson and Norman Wilkinson, 10 - 24. Mansel Davey, Byron Richards, Brain Kent and Roger Barwick, 11 - 15.

For their weekend league game, Cowbridge played Ynysangharad in Pontypridd and by winning on one of the three rinks gained two valuable points. It was a struggle to raise full team for this match and captain Clive Pritchard was grateful to those who were called up at the last minute and played their part.

Rink scores: Mansel Davey, Len Taylor Tony Lewis and Bob Penn 27 - 13; Gerry Lloyd, Ron Woolford, John Trott and Clive Pritchard 12 - 25; Bryan Hole, David Howell, Colin Wilson and Norman Wilkinson 9 - 25; Ron Frayling, John Collin, Brian Kent and Brian Williams,16 - 38. Match score :Cowbridge 64 - Ynysangharad 101.

The men play their first league game at home this Saturday to Gelligale a team that also has a carpet surface. Should be interesting. Spectators are welcome. We have plenty of seating around the green which is situated behind the Leisure Centre. The match will start at 2.30pm.

Llantwit A bowlers go close at Aberkenfig

Llantwit Major 'A' travelled to Aberkenfig on Thursday, June 9, in the Rockwood Triples League on a green which had a similar surface to Llantwit's own.

Geoff Timms, Cen Williams and Mike Harmon had a very good win by five shots, scoring seven shots to five on the last five ends to win 21-16.

Ian Williamson, John O'Brien and John Nixon also had a win by just one shot, but as they conceded 10 shots and scored just two on the last six ends, the win could have been considerably more.

The experienced Charles Hiscock and John Crane, supported by the ever-improving Andy Vincent, were never in arrears and scoring three fives and a three, finished 22-13.

However, it was a different story for Ken Williams, Paul Brown and Eric Sparks. Having got off to a magnificent start with a seven shots to one in Llantwit's favour after just four ends, they proceeded to drop a six, two threes, a five and two fours to give Aberkenfig the advantage that Llantwit were unable to recover ending 11-33. Llantwit 70 - Aberkenfig 77.

In contrast to the excellent green on Thursday at Aberkenfig, Llantwit A Team visited Belle Vue Penarth, which must be one of the 'heaviest' greens in the Vale.

Belle Vue were two short and Keith Alexander and his rink of Ian Williamson, Andy Vincent and Dave Thomas, took full advantage by adapting very well to the difficult conditions, and ended the game winning by five and a quarter shots, 18 to 12.75.

John Nixon's four of Derek Lancaster, Paul Brown and Eric Sparks, adapted to the conditions and, staying the pace after being only 14–11 up on the 11th end, proceeded to score 14 shots with only one in reply on the next nine ends, finishing 31–15.

Graham Merchant's team of Cen Williams, Geoff Timms and Pat Twomey also played against a triple and fought hard and ended up losing by nine-and-a-half shots.

Cen Williams found the going difficult on the heavy green, losing 19.5 - 10, which was better than the remaining rink who lost heavily and if it had not been for new bowler John Moison, the score might have been even worse.

Scoring only two twos and a one, the rink of John Moison, Ken Williams, John Ball and Mike Harmon found the green far too heavy and found it almost impossible to reach the long ends which Belle Vue were playing, dropping an eight on the 10th end and four fours and a six, to make the final score 5–50.

The team score was Llantwit 64 Belle Vue 97

Hat trick for Vale horse

A SIX-YEAR-OLD mare called Callymay, owned and trained by Aberkenfig's Delyth Thomas, made it three wins in a row at the HH Sheikh Mansoor Global Arabian Horse Flat Racing Festival at Hereford racecourse.

A delighted Delyth, who has trained many winners at the Hereford, track said: "Callymay ran a blinder today. She loves racing, and I certainly never expected to be leading the Trainer's Championship."

Callymay was ridden by top Arabian horse rider Simon Walker, who is leading the Jockeys' Championship, a title he has won no fewer than nine times including last season.

Callymay and Simon Walker

Simon Walker and Delyth Thomas receive trophies from Amanda Smith.

Point-to-Point awards

THE annual South Wales and Monmouthshire Point-To-Point awards evening will be held at the Holiday Inn, Newport, Gwent, on June 18.

Winners: Champion rider men, John Mathias; Champion rider ladies, Charlotte Evans; Bill Jones Trophy, Bradley Gibbs; South Wales Novice Rider, Richard Patrick; Novice Riders, Conor Orr; Champion Mare, Keith Pritchard's Watch The Birdie; Champion Horse, David Llewellyn's Rosies Peacock; Champion Horse 12 years and over, David Llewellyn's Rosies Peacock; Best Hunter Chaser, Claire Sherriff's My Corrana; Best Llangeinor/Pentyrch horse, Steve Young's Northgeorge.

They're off!

THEY'RE Off – The History of the Pembrokeshire Hunt Point-To-Point* by Anthony Williams will appeal to all hunt-racing enthusiasts.

Winning Grand National jockey, Carl Llewellyn, who grew up in the Pembrokeshire area in his short foreword to this unique book, writes: "The history of the sport from the early days of racing to the present day makes fascinating reading and I wish the book every success."

Carl told me of his plans to turn professional at the 1985 Llangeinor Hunt Point-To-Point after winning the maiden race on a horse called Yukon Tina.

His brother, David, had earlier been successful in the adjacent hunts race on Final Flirtation.

The book is well illustrated throughout, and there is a picture of the Vale's Mr J W Tudor and family in the paddock after winning the intermediate race with Musique en Tete. There is also one of James Tudor scoring om Sporting Hero and another of Llancarfan's Evan Williams winning on the prolific Timber Tool.

There is also one of Cowbridge's John Llewellyn winning on Peter Bowen's Gold Shot at Pembrokeshire in 1991.

It is interesting to read the early reproduced press cuttings, but I was disappointed that none of my own from the Western Telegraph of the last 20 years or so was not used.

The book is dedicated to Colwyn Hooper, the 15-year-old rider who was killed when thrown from his horse at the Pembrokeshire Point-To-Point in 1952.

Back then, they were still riding over banks in the west Wales area and it wasn't until 1953 that: "Two races over fences were introduced into the Pembrokeshire Hunt Point-to-Point Steeplechase meeting at Scoveston last Thursday and this experiment was an unqualified success; in fact, they were the outstanding feature of the programme. Not only did the events produce fine fields, but by far the best racing of the afternoon and it is obvious that serious consideration will have to be given to the extension of this mode of racing."

One of the riders who rode over banks recalled in this book is the late Fred Mathias, grandfather of Welsh champion rider John Mathias. Fred, who wasn't that much older than me, would always greet me with the words, "How are you young man?"

A real character, Fred would be tremendously proud of his grandson, who is one of the best amateur riders to come out of Wales in years.

Another Grand National-winning jockey who had his last point-to-point ride at the Llangeinor Hunt Steeplechases was Hywel Davies, and he wrote: "I did ride on a number of occasions at Scoveston Fort, quite a few for Bert Lavis, and also some for Gillian Cuff, who lived quite locally to me near Cardigan, before following my brother Geraint (Taffy) into the National Hunt game."

They're Off costs £10 plus postage, and can be obtained from Anthony Williams, Skerryback, Haverfordwest, SA62 3DN; telephone 01646 636598.

Barratt celebrates Euro 2016 with new grassroots football sponsorship across south Wales

BARRATT is celebrating Wales being part of Euro 2016 by sponsoring teams that are close to its new developments across south Wales.

Barratt sales director, Richard Lawson, said: "We want to celebrate Wales' participation in Euro 2016 and also show our support for the many young players starting out in the sport right across the south.

"It's important to us that we build lasting relationships with those living in the communities we are helping to create. Football plays a major role in the development of young people from all walks of life.

"Who knows, some of these youngsters may be looking forward to playing in future major championships somewhere down the line."

Mitch Gee, chairman of sponsorship recipient Llantwit Major Junior FC, said: "We would like to thank Barratt for its sponsorship of Llantwit Major Junior Football Club. This has helped us to keep fees for the children's parents really low, giving the opportunity for as many as possible to enjoy their football with us."

Big win for Millwood bowlers in Munro Cup

A 19-shot win for the Millwood side in this tie of the Munro Cup, though not quite sure if this will be enough to see any progression in the Cup.

After the fourth end had been played Millwood had taken a 5 shot lead at 22-17, but after some good bowling by the Central side, this had developed into a two-shot lead to Central after the ninth end 36 –38.

Millwood bowlers then knuckled down to the task in hand. After the 13th end the lead had swung to Millwood who then took a 12-shot advantage to lead by 57– 45.

This lead was too great a target for Central to try to claw back because after the final 18th end, Millwood had the 19 shot winning margin.

As the clubhouse welcomed all players after the game for the usual hospitality, and 'post mortem' as to how the game was played, everyone enjoyed the pleasure of a very sociable evening.

Thank you Central for your company, for another game to follow very shortly, this time a league 7 game.

Final score Millwood 83 Barry Central 64.

Travelling away to St Peters' for this Division Four game, the weather turned out to be a lovely day for a keenly contested game.

When the fifth end had been played, Millwood had managed to take a four-shot lead at 19 –15. What proceeded then put Millwood into a very welcome 17 shot advantage at the completion of the 10th end by the score of 45—28.

Had Millwood taken too much of a lead for St. Peters' to reduce the deficit? When the 15th end had been played, the score was now a lot closer with Millwood only leading by 51—41.

What would the last six ends turn out to be contested like? As luck would have it, the gap for St Peters' was just that little bit out of reach, for Millwood ran out the winners by a very slender margin of just 3 shots at the 21st end, and won by 72 shots to 69.

Talk about a close run game. Please, not too many of these during this season!

There was a lot of good play by Millwood on rink two at the beginning forming the basis of the win because after just 10 ends Brian Crockford's rink led by a very healthy 19 shots to 0. Well done lads.

Match result: Millwood 72. St Peters – 69.

Welcoming Cadoxton A for this Division 7 game. Millwood took a very early lead after the fifth end and were lying 25 shots to 20, but at the 10th end the gap had narrowed though still in favour of Millwood for them to be only 3 shots in the lead at 40 – 37.

It looked like a very close game could be on the cards over the last half of the game.

Millwood put a bit of pressure on Cadoxton A, for after the 15th end the game still stood in favour of the home side to be leading by 59 shots to 54.

How would the final ends pan out? As Millwood kept piling the shots in they managed to run out winners by an 11 shot winning margin 84 – 73. A good result was due to rink four who managed a 10-shot win margin.

Without that margin, a very different game might have been keenly contested. As with every game, a lot depends on good play, luck and what chances are taken or missed.

Thanks go to Cadoxton A for the contest, and the spirit in which all games of Bowls are played and enjoyed in.

Match result: Millwood 'A' 84 Cadoxton 'A' 73.

Weekend of mixed results for Vale Club cricketers

THERE were mixed results for Vale Cricket Club's sides last weekend.

The Firsts travelled to Machen and lost by 10 wickets while a hastily-assembled Second XI produced an outstanding performance in the reverse fixture in Corntown.

Asked to bat first, the Firsts got off to a good start after the early loss of Gareth Andrews. JJ Davies (47) played really well and in partnership with Mark Francis were going along at over five an over.

Francis' departure, however, started a middle order collapse which put the away side in trouble at 70 for 8.

Spirited hitting by Darren Upham (46), firstly in partnership with Max Collis and then Carl Brooks saw the score to 147, well under part on a fast scoring wicket and ground.

The Machen openers teed off from the start and raced away to the target in 20 overs, Jones 71 not out and Thomas 60 not out.

Back in Corntown, stand-in captain Mark Stephens oversaw a great 6-wicket victory. Fielding first, consistent bowling from Will Johnson (4-27), Gareth Kellen (2-13) and Owens (2-4) dismissed Machen for 136.

In reply, the skipper scored 56 not out and in accompaniment with Gethin Merry (39) saw the side home within 33 overs.

Flint lands a winner

BRIDGEND'S John Flint had plenty to smile about at rainsoaked Chepstow last Friday when the judge ruled that his 10-year-old course winner Urban Space, ridden by Tim Clark, and a 6-1 chance, had beaten the bottom weighted Prince Of Islay by a neck in a photo-finish in the two miles Longcroft Handicap.

Maisy Missile

Maisy Missile, owned, bred and trained by Mrs Mary Evans, mother of Llancarfan racehorse trainer Evan Williams, landed the two-mile Blue Cross For Pets Handicap Chase at Newton Abbot last Friday.

Well ridden by Evan's stable jockey Paul Moloney, Maisy Missile at 14- years-old the oldest horse in the race won by seven lengths from Ladies Dancing.

A winner of two hurdle races and three chases, the bottom weighted Maisy Missile was winning for the first time since 2013 and was returned at odds of 9-1. Mrs Evans and her husband Bill Evans farm in Pembrokeshire.

Cavaliers Seconds win with a number of overs to spare

by DAVE CHEAL

Scott Buckley of Llantwit Major Cavaliers Seconds, won the toss and elected to insert Morriston 2nd XI in the latest round of SWCA Division 6 matches, with the match balls sponsored by Roz Couzens Chiropodist.

Morriston got off to a good start with Dan Short (11) and Phil Evans (73) putting on 77, in 21 overs, for the first wicket, before losing two wickets in the 22nd over to an Ed Pickford (8-4-9-3) double wicket maiden.

Kelvin Thomas scored 36 and held the innings together, after the departure of Phil Evans, before Morriston were bowled out for 150 in the 38th over with Phil Harris (2 for 12) and a wicket each for Nick Harris, Fraser Prior and Kieran Davies with Ed and Dom Henson taking catches.

The Cavs reply contained a number of decent innings with opener Ed Pickford (35), Scott Buckley (22 not out), Kieran Davies (12) and 15 year old Dom Henson (11) all making useful contributions.

However the Cavs were indebted to 16-year-old Nick Harris (42) who hit a personal best, including nine 4s in an innings that would have given him plenty of confidence going forward.

The Cavs won the game in the 39th over with skipper Scott Buckley finishing the match with a six to take the Cavs to 155 for eight and claim 19 points from the game.

The wicket takers for Morriston were Jon Shefford, Kelvin Thomas, Dan Short and Nathan Benianous all with two each. An excellent win for the Cavs as they head into their next game at Dyffryn next week. The Cavs would like to thank Julie for doing the teas, Anthony Brown Estate Agents, Chiropodist Roz Couzens, Cooperative Travel, Llantwit Major Autocentre, Oxford Lawns and Gardens, Simons Plaice, Sinclair Direct and Wave Design to Print for their much appreciated sponsorship of the club.

Comprehensive win for the Blue Bulls

Bridgend Blue Bulls leapt to the top of the Welsh Conference after an exciting 44-22 win over West Wales Reserves in Llanelli.

The first half was fairly competitive and feisty but Bridgend went in with an 18-6 lead. Aaron Harries crossed for their first, converted by Joe Symons but it was soon 6-6 through a Iwan Mayze try with Taylor Phillips converting.

Bridgend though are not champions for nothing and they stepped on the gas just before the interval, with Owen Thomas and Jack Dryden running in scores with Symons improving both.

The game was out of reach within 10 minutes of the restart as Thomas scored his second and Dale Wood followed him over. Symons converting the first, Thomas the second and the score was 30-6.

Mayze's second try brought the score back to 30-10 but it was a brief respite as Bridgend scored three more times, Henry Marrar, Marcus Thomas and Wood with Symons converting once.

But Raiders reserves weren't finished yet, one from Trystan Morgan and Mayze completing his hat-trick with further goals from Phillips bringing some respectability to a West Wales side that contained a number of debutants.

Llantwit ladies beat the league leaders

ON Sunday the members of Llantwit travelled to play a mixed match against our old friends at Brecon.

An enjoyable time was had by all and the bowling was excellent.

On Monday, it was the ladies' turn. They travelled to Bridgend to play a social match, president versus vice president, with clubs represented from all over Glamorgan.

It was a very enjoyable afternoon's bowling, followed by high tea at the Heronston Hotel. Thank you to the Glamorgan Executive for a well-organised afternoon.

Tuesday saw us playing at home against Kenfig Hill and Pyle, in another round of the Cowbridge Shield.

Margaret Morgan's rink lost 14-16 in what was a close game. Helen's team could not hold back the excellent bowling of the Kenfig ladies, losing 7-21.

Dilys's team, however, gave no quarter to the Kenfig ladies, winning comfortably 22-7.

On Thursday, we welcomed Penarth ladies who are top of the league table so we expected a tough game, and it was.

All rinks were close, with Carol's rink even on the last end and managing to get the one point to win their game 12-11.

Marian's rink stayed with Penarth until the last few ends, unfortunately losing 13-17. Julie's team played well, winning 18-11.

Well done ladies, we gained eight much needed points, which hopefully will put us in a stronger position in the league table.

Good win for Llantwit

LLANTWIT'S second league match on Saturday was against Beddau, who arrived three players short

This made three of the matches a disjointed affair. Despite this, Llantwit won on all rinks for a 101-41 victory.

Steve Booker's rink stormed ahead from the start and were 12 shots up after seven ends. A score of six by Beddau on the ninth end reduced Llantwit's lead to five. Llantwit raised their game after this, winning most of the remaining ends to win by 14 shots.

Charles Hiscock's rink took the lead after the third end and they held from then, with Beddau winning only nine ends out of 21. Llantwit won comfortably by 14 shots.

Graham Jones' rink could not get going at the start of the match and it took until the 13th end before they went ahead. After this they took command, taking the majority of the remaining ends to win by 15.

Neville Young's rink continued their good league form, taking the lead on the third end. Llantwit were only troubled by Beddau's lead, who bowled well with the extra advantage of bowling three bowls. Llantwit overcome this to win by 18 shots. NY

Cowbridge Darts season presentation evening

by Paul Tasker

ON Saturday evening, June 11 the 2015-2016 Cowbridge Darts League concluded with a successful finals and presentation night. The Six Bells Inn, Penmark, hosted the event this year, and they were the perfect hosts.

The evening started with the finals of the doubles competition. First up were the ladies.

Both pairs played excellent darts but the winners were Hilarie Coles and Joan Burt (Old Post Ladies), this season's Ladies Doubles champions who defeated Pam Adams and Maureen Fleming (Farmers Arms) 2-0.

Then it was the men's turn. Martin Thomas and Paul Butcher (Edmondes 'B') started off strongly, winning the first leg, but Paul Cates and Luke Woolf (Highwayman Inn), are this season's Men's Doubles champions, since they responded with some excellent darts to win 3-1.

Following a break to enjoy the excellent buffet it was the turn of the singles competition. Again, first up were the ladies. This was a very close, high scoring match with Mickey Wilcox (Old Post Ladies), becoming this season's Ladies Singles champion, narrowly defeating Joan Burt (Old Post Ladies) 2-1. Then attention switched to the men's singles final.

This time there was no stopping a very determined Paul Butcher (Edmondes 'B') who became this season's Men's Singles champion by winning 3-0 against Nigel Thomas (Farmers Arms).

The evening concluded with presentations to the teams of all the other 2015-2016 season awards.

League champions: the Edmondes B and the runners-up Highwayman Inn.

Great Western Cup champions: the Farmers B (H&H) and runners-up Edmondes 'A'.

The Fours champions: the Edmondes 'B' (Martin Thomas, David Thomas, David Cheal, Paul Butcher, Martin Gaffney, Jonathan Cheal) and runners-up the Edmondes 'C' (Mark Dowling, Steve Huish, Noyle Burt, Richie Williams, Marc Lassimer).

The Mixed Doubles champions: Maureen Fleming, Nigel Thomas and Rob Jones (Farmers Arms) and runners-up Pam Adams, Tony Fox and Owen Carter (Farmers Arms).

The Clive Blick Trophy champions were Sally McCaver, Rob McCaver and John Izzard (Farmers 'B' – H&H) and runners-up were Maureen Fleming, Nigel Thomas, Rob Jones and Owen Carter (Farmers Arms).

Captain's Cup champion: Steve Simmonite (Edmondes 'A') and runner-up Ryan Gratton (Six Bells Inn).

Of great importance are the individual awards. The 180 shield went to Ryan Gratton who hit three during the season, 180 medals going to Martin Thomas and Simon Reader who hit two during the season and also Paul Butcher, John Fleig, and Rhys Jury who hit one.

The Men's Highest Out Cup went to William Wetherall (Llanharry) with a 118 three-dart out. Ladies' Highest Out Shield went to Emma Hole (Old Post Ladies), the league's youngest player with a 90 three-dart out.

After a thrilling raffle draw, the teams then danced the evening out. We now take a summer break, but the darts will return at the beginning of September.

Anyone wishing to join a team, or start a team are strongly encouraged to get in touch by e-mail at cowbridgedarts@gmail.com; up-to-date information can be found on the website: www.darts.apsn.co.uk.

BLAST FROM THE PAST – 1993

BY BRIAN LEE

THIS week, GEM columnist Brian Lee, who this year is celebrating 50 years of reporting on the Welsh hunt-racing scene, takes a look at a piece he wrote for The GEM and which appeared on April 29, 1993.

'Unlike the Aintree Grand National, the 12 runners in the Welsh point-to-point Grand National over four miles at the Pentyrch steeplechases at Llantwit Major got off to a good start. Most of the early running was made by Tim Jones' mount Pat Steel, but the 1990 winner – 11-year-old Shuttlecock Star – drew clear after jumping the 19th of the 25 fences to win easily by 25 lengths from 13-year-old Majestic Buck.

Shuttlecock Star, who was winning for the third time this season, was ridden by Newport's Andrew Price. The local hope, St Helen's Boy, who had won last year's race, trailed in fifth and last place.

Cowbridge farmer John Llewellyn landed a double with Chibougama (maiden division two) and Duke of Impney (maiden division three) to bring his career total of wins to an incredible 261. Only two other riders in the history of the sport have ridden more winners than Llewellyn who is surely a candidate for the Welsh Sportsperson Hall of Fame.

Unfortunately, point-to-point racing which produced the famed Anthony and Rees brothers, Fulke Walwyn, Hywel Davies and Carl Llewellyn, does not get a look-in in the rugby and soccer-orientated press.

(NB I still feel strongly about this after all these years of promoting a sport very close to my heart. The only time one hears from sports editors is when an injured rider is on a life support machine.)

Llewellyn has ridden 18 winners over the Moorlands course, which is two more wins than any other rider.

David Stephens had the restricted race all sewn up on his father's Belhelvie, who made nearly all the running, but unfortunately his weight cloth came off just 10 yards from the winning post. The race was awarded to Jon Parry Keen's mount Origami who would have been a well-beaten 20 lengths second.

Stephens had quick consolation when winning the first division of the split maiden on eight-year-old Polly Pringle, who had eight lengths to spare over Bachelor's Pet at the finish. Lexden was an impressive winner of the third division under David Jones who was standing in for Robert Rowsell, then suffering from concussion after falling from Tanegrus in the restricted open.

Earlier in the day, Robert had won the members' race on his father's Castle Farm. Joe Price made it four wins in a row on nine-year-old Taureen Tycoon who took up the running approaching the second last to win the confined by 15 lengths from Chief Ironside.

There was a good class field for the ladies' open which was won by Candy Thomas on Up The Ladder.

Llangeinor's new course

The Llangeinor point-to-point steeplechases are being held for the first time at Caegawr Farm, Margam, Bridgend, on Saturday, May 1, and racegoers have a special treat in store for them. For the country's leading point-to-pointer, the grey Brunico who is known as The Desert Orchid of Wales (it was me who gave him that name!) is an intended runner for the men's open race.

Brunico, who last week won the classic Lady Dudley Cup at the Worcestershire meeting for the second year running, is a quirky character and a former top class flat and hurdles performer who has captured the hearts of thousands of enthusiasts with his brave performances on all types of going.

He has chalked-up 22 wins between the flags and has raced all over the country from his Pembrokeshire stable.

Trained by Peter Bowen and ridden by Ron Treloggen, Brunico – with seven wins this season – is on target to retain The Daily Telegraph Champion Horse Trophy.

Another leading point-to-pointer is the local mare Daisy Miller who beat Brunico when he ran out on one occasion earlier in the season and ran a close second on another.

If David Brace's Lucky Ole Son lines up for the members' race, the tip should be taken. An exciting day's racing is promised.'

Wenvoe hosts Welsh team championship

THIS year's Welsh Ladies Team Championship will be held at Wenvoe Castle Golf Club – the first time the club has hosted the event.

GUW Chairman Val Franklin said: "We are delighted to be able to bring this event to Wenvoe Castle.

"The ladies Team Championship is one of the highlights of the GUW calendar and is eagerly anticipated by many clubs from across Wales."

While defending champions Newport will undoubtedly be among the favourites to do well once again, they will not have things all their own way.

Royal St David's, a regular side in the closing stages of the championship and last year's runners-up, will bring a strong team. Last year's losing semi-finalists Creigiau and Wrexham are also represented and feature in the same side of the draw as Newport and Royal St David's.

In the other half of the draw, Southerndown, winners for three years in a row in 2012, 2013 and 2014 will be looking to improve on their quarter final position from last year but face an intriguing first round match against a strong St Pierre.

Other first round matches include the local derby between The Glamorganshire and Dinas Powys, while host club Wenvoe Castle have drawn nearby St Mary's for their first game.

Wenvoe Castle Secretary Nicola Sims said: "As a regular supporter and past winner of the Ladies Team Championship, we are delighted to be hosting this year's event.

"We look forward to welcoming all of the players and their supporters to our club. The course is in great condition and I am sure will be thoroughly enjoyed by all of the teams."

The four day event starts on Thursday, June 16, with the final taking place in the morning of Sunday, June 19.

Visitors are welcome to come and watch this year's finals of one of Wales' longest established golf tournaments.

'Thank God for football'

says local Methodist minister

CALLING all football fans! Rev Peter Taylor (local Methodist minister) is to lead an event titled 'Thank God for Football'.

'Thank God for Football' takes place on Friday, June 17 from 7pm – the day after the Wales versus England Euro 2016 match.

The event will be held at Barry Town United Social club, on Barry Road.

All in the local community and local churches who love football and sport are welcome and it is suitable for teens and adults.

A free event, it includes a quiz, sports-related songs, and a look at a documentary that explores 'the beautiful game'.

Cowbridge girl flies out to South Africa with under-21s

FORMER Cowbridge Comprehensive pupil Lydia Hitchings has been selected to represent Wales Under-21s in a three test series against South Africa.

The 19-year-old goal shoot, who plays for the Junior Celtic Dragons and Wales Under-21s hopes to add to her Under-17s caps and her debut cap against Northern Ireland, at Netball Europe in Aberdeen last year.

She said: "I'm really looking forward to travelling to South Africa. We have been training very hard with the senior squad and I have been really focused on my shooting.

"We can't wait to get on court and we know they are going to be really physical, so we're ready for the challenge"

The under-21 squad accompanied the senior Welsh netball squad, who flew out to Durban on Sunday, June 12, and both teams will compete in the six match (three test) Spar Challenge series from June 17 to 19 at the Durban Ice Arena.

Head coach Trish Wilcox said: "This is an opportunity for us to measure ourselves against one of the top five teams in the world."

This is Wales' first visit to South Africa, but the senior squads have met 11 times before, whilst the under-21s have played against each other five times

The under-21 Wales team will take advantage of the opportunity to prepare for their Netball Europe tournament in October 2016.

Megan (13) celebrates hole-in-one at Cottrell Park

Megan Cullinane celebrating her hole-in-one.

THE juniors at Cottrell Park Golf Club have made a great start to the golf year, at the club's 20th golf day.

This was celebrated by junior Jordan Standing, winning with 43 points.

The juniors had their monthly medal on June 5, and what a game it was. Megan Cullinane managed a hole in one on the ninth hole on the Button. She understandably was over the moon but said that it was not her best shot, and only realised that it was a hole-in-one when her other team mates started cheering.

The match was the day before her 13th birthday, so it was a fantastic way to celebrate, as she will also receive a Hugo Boss watch from golf site 'How Did I Do'.

In the very same competition, Iestyn James parred the course which is 72. There were smiles all around even if Megan's father Mike had to buy a lot of drinks for everyone, which is a golf tradition.

The juniors run a variety of competitions for all abilities from fun competitions to league and medal competitions. Newly appointed junior organiser Mike Cullinane stated that it's important to include all children of all abilities, regardless of handicap.

Coaching is run on various days, from development to course-ready juniors, run by golf pro Gareth Bennett. Should you be interested in your children giving it a go call 01446 781781 for more information.

FLYING THE FLAG FOR WALES!

New-look All Blacks find Gatland's braves are no push-over

Wales' tourists magnificent in defeat

BACK PAGE COMMENT
by Don John

AS the TV cameras cut to the All Blacks' dressing room at half time in the first test against Wales at Eden Park, Auckland, head coach Steve Hansen could be glimpsed laying down the law to the world champions, who had been shocked by a blistering 40-minute display by the fired-up tourists in red, and were trailing 15-18 at the change-over.

In the melting pot was a record first Welsh victory in New Zealand and the ending of a dismal run of 26 defeats since 1963. Incredibly, the young Queen Elizabeth was just ascending her throne in 1953 when the Dragon last singed the Kiwi's feathers - that peerless 'prince of centres' Bleddyn Williams leading Wales to a famous 13-8 victory at the old National Stadium - and doubling the feat with his Cardiff club.

To put it all in overall context, the 30-match playing history between the two nations stretching way back to the first one contentiously edged by Wales in 1905, had read: New Zealand 27 - Wales 3: Total points scored, New Zealand 916 - Wales 202

Whatever the blunt-speaking Hansen said at half time had the desired effect, but it would take his newly-re-built side right up to the final quarter of a breathless, non-stop encounter to wrest the lead and overcome heroic Welsh resistance; though the final score - 37-21 - did scant justice to a spirited effort that for over an hour had dangled the heady prospect of a shock result that would have reverberated around the rugby world.

As Wales' head coach, Warren Gatland, said proudly afterwards: "We were brilliant for 60 minutes", though he candidly admitted "the players were blowing a bit" in the final stages against relentless opponents who were "used to playing at a much higher level"

Pre-match talk among pundits and social media had been of All Blacks in transition, following the retirement of several world renowned names, but it was surely fanciful to suggest New Zealand were "vulnerable"?

As Hansen himself pointed out, the new line-up were experienced players in their own right and fully in tune with the All Black ethos, despite the six changes made - a view seemingly vindicated when his team almost immediately went into the lead from the opening whistle, after the tourists were penalised.

Minutes later, however, Wales displayed a spirit of adventure that has been absent for far too long and launched a swift-moving handling attack that saw outstanding No 8, Taulupe Faletau, round it off in the corner for a try, converted by outside half Dan Biggar, who also landed two penalties as the All Blacks were forced into uncharacteristic handling errors and infringements

However, they had hit back with two first half tries, one unconverted, to make the score 15-11, only for scrum-half Rhys Webb to complete a scintillating first half for Wales with a typical touchdown, easily converted by Biggar, to restore his side's lead to 18-15. at the interval.

Six minutes after the interval, Webb made a try-saving tackle but the All Blacks drew level (18-18) with a penalty smack in front of the posts, and despite another successful penalty by Biggar, the hosts turned the screw as the game entered the final quarter, running in three tries (the last, heartbreakingly, with 82 minutes on the clock). Earlier both sides had had a try disallowed by the English referee Wayne Barnes.

The result was a flattering but in the end deserved 39-21 win for the world champs, who, nevertheless, knew they had been given a tough test by a Wales team aiming to bury memories of the Twickenham collapse, and it sets the scene for another exciting second test in Wellington on Saturday by Gareth Jamieson, the GEM's man in Bordeaux!

Robson Kanu sends Wales into dreamland and next up are the English in Lens!

THE first game of any tournament is a tricky one – you want to set out your stall, show what you're capable of and make a winning start, but are more than aware that to start the tournament with a defeat can put you on the back foot.

With Wales, add in the pressure of a nation priming itself to make up for 58 years of defeat and disaster – not that this squad would allow themselves to be distracted by the emotion of the occasion, as they have shown in the last 12 months – and the game against Slovakia in Bordeaux on Saturday took on even greater significance than usual.

With a stadium seemingly spilling over with Welsh fans, red overpowering the white of Slovakia, Chris Coleman's men took to the field knowing that having already achieved the goal of qualifying for a major tournament, the next step was to show that they belong on the European stage.

In a game that ebbed and flowed throughout, it seemed that the large Welsh contingent in the Stade de Bordeaux (and the thousands watching in fan zones both in Bordeaux and Cardiff) were going to have to settle for a draw, Gareth Bale's wonderful free kick being cancelled out by Ondrej Duda's effort – but cometh the hour, cometh the man.

Hal Robson Kanu, who proved throughout qualifying he was pivotal to Wales' attacking game with his ability to create space for the likes of Bale and Ramsey, ran on to a pass by the latter and his scuffed finish rolled into the corner of the net, sending the fans wild and creating another slice of history for this group of players, the first British team in the history of the tournament to win their opening game.

The result became even more important later that evening as England were stunned by a late equaliser in their game with Russia, leaving Coleman's team sitting top of the pile in Group B ahead of their game with Roy Hodgson's men this afternoon (Thursday).

For a game that was already in the spotlight given the derby nature of it, even more significance will now be placed on the end result – a win for Wales would almost certainly ensure qualification for the next stage (and severely dent England's ambitions). A draw will leave both sides' fate in their own hands, while an England victory would leave the group looking open going into the final round of matches.

As soon as the final whistle blew on Russia-England, the mind games began, Gareth Bale questioning England's pride and passion and stating that they "big themselves up before they've done anything", accusations that were defended with more than a little annoyance by both Roy Hodgson and Wayne Rooney, Hodgson labelling the comments "disrespectful".

The ever-controversial Jack Wilshere then claimed that England had the better players and better team, only for ITV pundit Craig Bellamy to suggest that Wales had a better team unity and, more importantly, the best player out of the two teams in Gareth Bale, rubbishing Wilshere's comments – all good banter, but proof, if any were needed, how high the stakes are in Lens later today.

Arguably the pressure lays squarely on England – anything other than a win will put their participation in the tournament past the group stages in serious risk (not including the behaviour of their fans, the unsavoury events in Marseille casting a dark pall over the tournament).

England chasing the game will suit Wales' game plan perfectly, playing tight and allowing Bale to use his pace on the counter-attack to run at the creaking English defence.

Avoiding defeat will be the most important thing, but Wales will definitely feel that if they play further up the pitch than they did on Saturday they can take the game to England.

Should Robson Kanu start the game then Wales will have no problems doing that – his presence will occupy the English defence allowing Bale to attack from deep, something that helped Wales beat Slovakia; up to the point of Robson Kanu's introduction (and the thankfully fully-fit Joe Ledley), Wales were being pushed further and further back by Slovakia, and Bale leading the line (being supported by the phenomenal Jonny Williams) meant Wales weren't getting forward in enough numbers to test the Slovaks.

Play further up the field today and Wales should feel more confident and assured of getting a positive result against our neighbours. It's fascinatingly poised and a nervy and exciting afternoon is in store for supporters of both countries – can Wales add England to their list of scalps? Don't bet against them...
